Allied High Commissioners At Constantinople Meet For Purpose of Arranging Meeting to End Conflict Between Turks and Greeks.

HOPE BELLIGERENTS REACH AGREEMENT

Angora Envoy Declares Kemal Pasha's Government Cannot Accept Terms Laid Down By European Diplomats for Peace Conference.

TENTATIVE DATE SET.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—October 16 has been set as the tentative date of the Near East peace conference, it was learned today. he conference probably will be held at Venice.

(Associated Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—The allied high commissioners plan to meet today for the purpose of bringing together representatives of Greece and the Turkish nationalists for the conference at Mundania, at which the terms of an armistice are expected to be settled.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, commander of the American naval detachment in Turkish waters will attend as an observer for the United States. The conference will examine the presen military cessation of hostilities.

Objects to Terms.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 25.—Djamid Bey, representative of the Angora government in Constantinople, declared today the allied invitation to the peace conference could not be accepted by the Turkish nationalists on the terms laid down.

"We cannot accept the allied terms because they propose to de-militarize the Sea of Marmora and part of Thrace which would prevent us from bringing our troops from Asia to Europe," said Hamid in a statement to the correspondent. Neither can we accept literally the condition that our army shall not advance while the peace conference is progressing.

"This would so so circumscribe our movements that the enemy will have ample opportunity to prepare forces for a fresh attack and would give the allies a chance to complete their land and naval reinforcements in the event the conference failed.

"Regarding the straits, we have already admitted freedom for the passage of all vessels through the Dardanelles, but we are not prepared to define in what authority or body the control shall be vested. That question must be settled at a conference between the Turks and the allies.

"We also insist that all nations having commercial, military or other interests in the Dardanelles including Russia and Bulgaria, shall participate in the conference.

QUIET MEETING OF CITY COUNCIL

Few Business Matters Come Before the Commissioners Monday.

The regular meeting of the city commission Monday afternoon, was one of the quietest in many months. The allowance of more than 70 claims, many of them pay for the judges and clerks of the recent special election, was the most important matter to be considered.

Commissioner Dayton acted as the mayor and presided over the meeting which was scheduled to be short and uninteresting. Approval of the plat of Franklin Park addition, consideration of several small paving districts and th threatened demand of people near Klecker court for immediate work on their paving district, were other matters demanding some attention.

Plans and estimates for pump house and resolutions authorizing the city to advertise for bids for their construction, were expected from the engineering department. Some reports from Mr. Bryan concerning a rumored inability of the city to buy Illinois coal, was expected.

BERMESEK BACK IN WAHOO JAIL

Governor Orders Prisoner Be Held Until Parole Board Acts.

Says County Judge Had No Authority to Sign Papers For Release.

Within three hours after Governor McKelvie talked on the telephone last Saturday with County Judge G. N. Parmenter at Wahoo, Rudolph Bermesek, convicted of bootlegging was back in the county jail there, from which he had previously been released by the sheriff, Jerry Dailey, on the county judge's order. Judge Parmenter called on the governor at his office Monday morning and told him the circumstances of the case.

In a letter which Mr. McKelvie wrote to the sheriff, he states that the county judge had no authority to order Bermesek's release and that the latter should be returned at once to the county jail and held there until his case is taken up with the state board of pardons and acted on by that body.

Bermesek had served twenty days of his ninety-day jail sentence, when County Judge Parmenter directed the sheriff to parole him. Parmenter took this action after getting a petition with eighty signatures requesting the prisoner's release.

Governor McKelvie says the arrest and prosecution of Bermesek was due to activities of State Sheriff Hyers and Federal Agent Carroll, whom he asked to investigate the case after a number of citizens at Morse Bluff had complained of Bermesek's operations in their community.

County Judge Parmenter informed newspaper men that he had supposed the state pardon board had no jurisdiction over misdemeanour cases, but only over felonies, and that he acted on that understanding. When he learned differently, he recalled the parole and Bermesek was returned to jail.

COUNTY ASSESSOR GIVES UP BOOKS

Pilkington Says He Held Them Because of Claim For Work.

Complaint Against Him to Be Dismissed If Promise Is Fulfilled.

County Assessor John Pilkington of Box Butte county, has surrendered and will turn over to the county clerk and the county board the real estate assessment books which he has retained in his possession up to the present time. After he does so, the complaint brought against him by the county board, looking toward his removal from office, will be dismissed by State Tax Commissioner Osborne.

Pilkington, who has been in Omaha the last week or so, came to Lincoln on Monday forenoon and appeared before the tax commissioner, who had set that time for hearing his case. County Attorney Lee Basye of Box Butte county, was also present.

Although Pilkington claimed he had not received formal notice of the proceeding, he waived any objection to Tax Commissioner Osborne's jurisdiction and said he was anxious to get the matter fixed up. He had refused to turn the assessment records over heretofore, because the county board turned down a claim of $750 for extra work claimed to have been performed in assessing real estate.

An agreed order was made by the tax commissioner specifying that Pickington should advise the county clerk where the tax books are, and to have them delivered to the clerk and the county board. The case was continued to October 15, to be dismissed if he carries out the agreement.

CEREMONIES MARK G. A. R. DEPARTURE

American Flag Presented to Veterans By Miller and Paine.

O. C. Bell Pays Tribute to Colors—250 Leave For Des Moines.

To the inspiring strains of martial music, played by the Veterans of the Foreign Wars bugle and drum corps, the train bearing Lincoln's delegation to the Grand Army reunion at Des Moines pulled out from the Rock Island station at 10:30 a. m. Monday. Over 250 delegates were aboard, including members of the G. A. R. the Women's Relief corps, Grand Army auxiliary, Ladies of the G. A. R., the Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans. As is the custom, all organizations based on participation in the Civil war are to hold their annual convention at the same time.

Before the train left a short ceremony was held on the station platform in the presence of the delegates friends and relatives and representatives of other Veterans organizations. The bugles sounded assembly, Senior Vice Commander O. C. Bell assumed the chair, and the Farragut quartet led in song. Harmon Bross, department adjutant general, then presented the Nebraska Grand Army with a beautiful American flag on behalf of the firm of Miller & Paine. The department's former flag was frayed and worn.

In his presentation speech Mr Bross called attention to the f that the late Dr. B. L. Paine bequeathed $500 to the o rder to decorate the graves of departed comrades on Memorial day.

Mr. Bell accepted the colors on behalf of the department. After expressing his appreciation to the donors, he rendered an eloquent tribute to the national emblem.

"I firmly believe that a Divine Hand guided the work on that flag when Betsy Ross sewed together the red and white stripes," said Commander Bell. "If it had been red with that field of blue, it might have stood for courage and valor and truth, but the white tempered it with justice and purity of motive, so I say it was the Lord gave us this banner. You can see it in the sunset, in the streak of lower red and white. As the sun dips lower, we see the blue and the stars gleaming forth in the field, and we know that the Divine Hand had something to do with that flag."

Following Mr. Bell's talk, those present repeated in unison the G. A. R. pledge of allegiance: "One country, one language, one flag."

The G. A. R. drum corps then join with the younger veterans to play a number of stirring airs, and the delegates boarded the train for the national encampment.

Many Women Attend.

Thousands of delegates and visitors also are here to attend the meetings of the Women's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, Sons of Veterans, and Daughters and Sons of Veterans auxiliary.

The annual convention of Daughters of Veterans also will be held.

Among the early arrivals to the encampment was John L. Clem of Washington, D. C. Clem is better known as the Drummer Boy of Shiloh ridge. He ran away from home at the age of 10 and for two years accompanied an Ohio unit as an unofficial mascot. When 12 years of age he was permitted to enlist. He was the last soldier of the Civil war to be discharged. He remained in the army until 1915, when he retired.

Three cities have delegations here endeavoring to obtain the 1923 encampment. They are Milwaukee, Wis., and Pasadna and San Francisco, Cal.

ARRAY OF JURORS IN STEWART CASE IS OBJECTED TO Point Is Raised By City Attorney When Trial Begins.

Suit Involves Value of Land In the North Part of Lincoln.

Continued Until Spring.

At the afternoon session of court the W. E. Stewart suit against the city was continued by agreement until the April term. Judge Stewart desired such continuance, so as to avoid any possibility of error and City Attorney Peterson acquiesced, though refusing to withdraw his objection to the jury array.

A jury was drawn before Judge E. J. Cyements in district court on Monday morning to try for the second time the case of Willard E. Stewart against the city of Lincoln. In this action Judge Stewart appeals from the award of the appraisers appointed by the county court to fix the value of the 160-acre tract lying in the northern part of the city, that was owned by him and which the municipality desired to appropriate for park and other public purposes.

The appraisal was made in January, 1919. Judge Stewart was not satisfied with the amount fixed by the appraisers and appealed to the district court to fix a fair market price upon the land. The case was first tried in the fall of 1919 and he appealed to the supreme court from that judgment claiming the amount fixed by the jury was insufficient. The supreme court reversed the judgment of the district court and the case is now up for re-trial.

However, the city attorney, C. P. Peterson, sprang a surprise following the selection of the jury, which may clog the wheels again. He challenged the array. The jury panel under which the present case is up for retrial was selected or drawn to serve by Judge Stewart, County Clerk Miner and Clerk of the District Court Baer. Thus it is claimed the jury which was selected to try the case was disqualified to try this case. Fred Shepherd, presiding judge of the Lancaster county district court, as well as District Judges Clements and W. M. Morning were away on vacations when the time for selecting the new jury panel came. Clerk Baer asked Judge Stewart to assist in the drawing, which was done, as always, in the office of the county clerk and in the manner provided by law.

Mr. Peterson also raised another point in this same objection, although the court did not attach much weight to it. It was claimed that some of the same jurors who were selected to serve in Judge Stewart's case against the city had sat on other juries during the past two weeks in cases on trial before Judge Stewart.

Not Taking Chances.

While neither the city attorney nor the court thought there had been any irregularities in the drawing of the panel, Judge Stewart intimated that he would refuse to go on with the trial rather than take any chances on a mis-trial. Judge Stewart's representative is W. B. Comstock, Assistant City Attorney Wilke is sitting in the case with Mr. Peterson.

Mr. Peterson asked to be allowed until 2 p. m. Monday afternoon to cite some opinions in support of his objection to the array. While Judge Clements said he knew of no such cases he granted the request. However, Judge Clements said he would overrule the objection unless he was convinced by citations to the contrary. It is possible Judge Stewart will ask a continuance until next spring to avoid the possibility of error.

The land in question comprises two tracts. Fifty acres lies south of Salt creek between Ninth and Fourteenth streets and 108 acres lies west of Ninth street from First to Ninth streets between the Oak creek drainage project and Salt Creek. Both tracts lie within the city limits and are unimproved so far as buildings are concerned.

HEARING POSTPONED.

WASHINGTON, Sept 25.—Hearing was indefinitely postponed by the district of Columbia supreme court today on the government's motion for dismissal of an injunction proceedings brought by the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers to prevent serving of notices of the restraining order issued in Chicago by Judge Wilkerson on local striking railroad shopmene. The postponement was by agreement of counsel.

Killing Follows Raid On Melons

Officers say the Hoffman boy went to the miner's home to protest his innocence of stealing watermelons and that the shooting followed.

CLARIDGE TRIAL SET

Case Against Blair Banker Charged With Embezzlement and Falsification of Reports Comes Up Next Week.

FAILURE CAUSED HEAVY DRAIN ON STATE FUND

Attorney General Announces Second Prosecution of T. H. Matters To Begin In Douglas District Court November 13.

More than eighteen months have elapsed since the failure of the A. Castetter bank at Blair, and at last Fred H. Claridge, the managing official of that institution, is to be placed on trial for his acts which are alleged to have been responsible for the closing of the institution and the draft of $700,000 on the state guaranty fund for the payment of its depositors.

Announcement was made by Attorney General Davis, Monday morning that Claridge's case will be taken up during the first week of October at Blair. B cedissht hrdlu hrdlu h at Blair. Besides the charges of embezzlement, fraudulent bookkeeping, and falsification of reports, involved in the original complaint, new accusations of indirect borrowing from the bank by making loans to a partnership in which he was interested and making a direct loan to himself which appeared on the bank books as an overdraft will be filed according to Davis.

Since his return from Cleveland, more than a year ago, at a time when Nebraska officials were almost ready to arrest him three Claridge has been out on bond and working as an assistant credit man for an Omaha department store. Numerous letters are reported to have been received by the store management from bankers over the state protesting his employment there because the banks were subjected to heavy assessments, averaging $850 apiece to make good the Blair bank's losses.

Matters Case in November.

At a meeting in Omaha last Friday, which Attorney General Davis attended, it was agreed to start the second trial of T. H. Matters in district court there on November 13. Matters was indicted for conspiring with W. V. Mathews to embezzle $200,000 from the Pioneer State bank of Omaha, now in the hands of a receiver.

Either M. F or W. E. Shafer of Omaha, or both of them will be tried during the fall, the attorney general said, on at least one of the eight indictments which were brought against each. Among the charges pending against them are embezzlement from the American State bank of Omaha and the American Bank Building company, conspiracy to defraud in the sale of stock, and conspiracy with S. H. Grace, treasurer for an organization of railroad employes, to embezzle $65,000 of its funds.

Mr. Davis and his special assistant, W. C. Dorsey, will take an active part in the trial of all the foregoing cases. Matters was tried the first time last spring, but the jury disagreed.

LABOR SHORTAGE DELAYS PAVING

Settling of Shopmen's Strike Takes Workmen From The City.

Contractors Unable to Complete Jobs Already Untaken.

A sudden disappearance of laborers following the partial settlement of the shopmens' strike has seriously embarrassed local paving contractors, and is largely responsible for the delay the city is now experiencing in the completion of paving jobs already begun.

Common labor has been unusually plentiful this summer, especially since the opening of the strike on July 1, but the gangs fell off without warning when the Willard settlement was made effective. The contractors and city officials understand unofficially that many of these workmen, who were in reality striking shop men, left for other roads to apply for work in their particular line as soon as the opportunity offered.

The consequence is that city paving jobs are going slowly. One contractor with numerous districts to pave yet this fall reports that he is able to muster only enough men for one gang and can work on only one job at a time. Recently a gravel shortage threatened, and contractors loaded up with that material, piling it in the streets near their planned jobs. Now the labor situation delays them and the piles of gravel are beginning to bring complaints from people, who are partially blocked in by the piles.

HAASE SUBMITS WRONG FIGURES TO COMMITTEE

Buffalo County Treasurer Admits He Neglected to Mention Consolidation.

Wires Democratic State Committee Correcting His Error —What Figures Show.

CORRECTS FIGURES.

The following telegram was received by the democratic state committee on Sunday, from Kearney:

"J. J. Tooley, secretary democratic state committee, Lincoln—In Buffalo county comparative tax statement, the county tax was included with the state. Our books do not show them separate. Forgot to mention this when mailing statement.

"G. E. HAASE,
"County Treasurer."

This message had reference to data regard state taxes assessed against certain farm lands in Buffalo county, given out by the democratic committee last week.

The same county treasurer who furnished figures to the democratic state committee showing state taxes levied upon farm lands is now quoted by Governor Kelvie as his authority in contradicting the figures.

As the foregoing message explains, the Buffalo county official who was asked by the democratic state committee for the tax data reported under the heading of "state taxes" the combined state and county taxes, without separating them. This made the showing of state taxes a little more than twice as much as it should have been.

The state committee, supposing the figures to be official and correct, gave them out for publication. County treasures are supposed to be the best authority on taxes which they collect. In this instance, the information proved to be erroneous, owing to the county officer's oversight.

According to the democratic state committee's information, the state tax on these tracts of land was 37 per cent to 68 per cent of the total tax. Governor eKelvie's figures, attested by the county treasurer as correct, show the state taxes to have ranged from 17½ to 32 per cent of the total.

Dispute Over "19 Per Cent."

The governor and the republican state committee have been claiming that 'only 19 per cent of the taxpayer's dollar goes to support the state government." The democratic committee is undertaking to show that considerably more than 19 per cent of the farmer's tax dollar goes to the state.

Mr. McKelvie says in a statement given out Monday forenoon.

"The amount reported by the democratic state committee is the consolidated tax of the county and state as carried on the treasurer's records and shown on the taxpayer's receipt. Unfortunately, the tax receipt does not separate the state and county tax. Consequently, it is easy for the taxpayer to be confused regarding these two items, but there was no occasion for confusion on the part of the democratic state committee.

"Officials of the state government have made the statement that an average of only 19 per cent of the total tax dollar is returned to the state for state purposes, and this statement is true. This percentage varies in the various localities of the state, in some instances it being more than 19 per cent and in other instances less, but the total average for the state, as it has been given by officials of the state government, is correct, and any effort that may be made to refute it will fail.

"The taxpayer who wants to know the amount of his state taxes for 1922 should make a deduction of approximately one-third from his total state tax of 1921. The reason for this is that the state levy for 1922 is approximately one-third less than it was for 1921."

SHOP TOWN HOST AT BIG BARBECUE

National Labor Leader Main Speaker at Havelock Jollification.

Big Program Is Planned For Next Saturday, September 30.

The people of Havelock will make merry next Saturday, when they are going to show they are good hosts. A gigantic barbecue has been arranged at which they will roast and serve three huge steers. The city park will be the scene of the merry making and a program.

J. A. Franklin, assistant to the director general of railroads in charge of labor during the government operation of railroads, and president of the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders and Helpers of America, will present the side of labor in the present controversy.

Mr. Franklin has been a leader in organized labor during the last twenty years. He comes direct from the Baltimore conference with fresh facts that he will deliver first hand. The information that he carries will be the first direct information that has come to the people of this community regarding the Willard settlement that brought thousands of laboring men back to their work and partially settled one of America's aggravating problems.

Havelock people are anxious to show the public a good time and are seeking to impress on the public mind that they are peaceful citizens, doing the best they can to cope with a problem, their side of which they believe to be right. They admit that there are two sides to the proposition, but demand that their side be given a fair hearing.

In addition to the barbecue, the committee has provided entertainment and street dances.

ORDER IS IN FORCE

Judge Wilkerson Signs Drastic Temporary Injunction Order Asked By Attorney General Daugherty Against Shop Craft Leaders.

NO CHANGE MADE IN ITS EFFECTIVENESS

Attorney For Defendants Again Makes Plea for Setting Aside of Action In Long Statement But Dismissal Motion Is Overruled.

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—The drastic temporary injunction order asked by Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty against shop crafts strike leaders was put in force today by Judge James M. Wilkerson, without any of its effectiveness being modified.

Several slight changes in the wording of the order submitted Saturday were made by Judge Wilkerson to clarify its meaning.

Judge Wilkerson signed the order after Donald R. Rochberg, defense attorney said he was unable to suggest any form of order which would be effective: to give legal sanction to the exercise of an authority which we respectfully urge, is not within the power of the court. To call this proceeding in its method and result due process of law,' to justify the denial of constitutional rights of the defendants by this judicial finding based on ex parte affidavits, seems to me to disregard the fundamental principles of our system of laws as well as to exercise a power specially denied to the federal courts by an act of congress, passed in order to prevent the very deprivation of liberty and property which is here accomplished," Richberg said.

"It appears," he added that none of the named defendants is even charged with the commission of any unlawful act and I am unable to ascertain positively from a careful study of the opinion of the court just what unlawful acts are found to have been done by any of the defendants in furtherance of an unlawful conspiracy.

Apparently however, the court has found that there is proof of an unlawful conspiracy in the large number of unlawful acts shown to have been committed, the most of them 'unknown parties,' and that the defendants are presumed to have knowledge that these things were done.

Following the short plea by defense attorneys that the government petition for an injunction be denied, Judge Wilkerson denied their motion to dismiss, added the phrase with intent to further said conspiracy," in several paragraphs and signed the order.

The date of hearing for the defendants not heard in this action was set for 10 a. m., October 5.

TRAIN BANDITS ROB THREE BOYS

Youths Lose $487 While Coming to Lincoln Sunday Night.

Officers Say Engineer Failed to Stop to Permit Search For Holdups.

Captain Walter Anderson Monday noon blamed the engineer of the stock train who is alleged to have failed to slow down at Cushman, Neb., as signalled, for the escape of the two bandits who Sunday night held up and robbed three youths of $427 and a gold watch, after the stock train pulled out of Aurora, bound for Lincoln. The train made no stops between Aurora and Lincoln and the bandits were on the third coach from the engine, when the train speeded past a group of about twenty officers at Cushman about 11:35 p. m. Sunday, Anderson said.

The three boys were L. B. Shuffler of Pacific Junction, Ia., who lost $165; Glenn E. Williams, of Shenandoah, Ia., who was relieved of $174, and Fred Hageman of Elkhorn, Neb., who gave up $88 and a gold watch. They were robbed by two armed men dressed in overalls, who held them up shortly after the train had left Aurora.

The three boys had been working on the railroad, between Alliance and Colorado points. They had been paid off Saturday, and had caught a stock train for Lincoln. The boys told Captain Anderson that the two bandits were at the Alliance depot and saw them being paid off, and kept near them afterwards.

According to Shuffler, the bandits crept up on them when the train left Aurora. They forced them at the point of guns to walk about ten coaches away from the engine and then ordered the into sit down with their hands behind them. One of the bandits then searched them while the other kept them covered with a gun. Three times the bandits searched the men before they found the money that had been hidden in their clothing.

The bandits held the boys for an hour and then let them go. The boys hurried to the conductor and informed him about the holdup. He left a message at Seward, from which place a telegram was sent the Lincoln police.

Say Train Sped By.

Officers Waite, Rymer Beals and Special Agent Maroney and a dozen railroad guards hurried to Cushman, Neb., where the signal man had put signals for the engineer of the stock train to slow up. When the train arrived, the engineer is said to have sped by, disregarding the signal set for him, according to the police.

The officers recognized the two bandits, from the descriptions wired them, as two men on the third coach from the engine. One of the men was on the bottom step as if ready to hop off.

The officers drove to the roundhouse then but failed to find their men, who had gotten off and headed toward the city. A long search of the streets, failed to disclose any trace of the bandits.

Ford Tells How He Cut Prices Below Costs and Made a Profit.

Declares Doing More Business Than Ever and Increasing His Profits.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25.—Henry Ford is making more cars and more profits this year than ever before. Back of these facts is perhaps the most amazing moneyl story that ever was told, which is set down here as Ford told it.

Ford's profits for the year 1921 were $76,000,000. This was the high mark of his career up to that time. It was particularly notable because at the beginning of the year, Wall street, believing him to be in financial difficulties, had sent a banker to Ford to offer him a big loan and to designate the next secretary of the Ford Motor company.

During the latter part or 1921 and the early part of 1922 Ford reduced the prices of his cars and tractors sufficiently to wipe out his $76,000,000 profits of 1921 and leave a deficit of $10,000,000. That is to say, if the same number of cars and tractors were to be made in 1922 that were made in 1921 and wages and the prices of raw materials were to remain the same, there would be a deficit of $10,000,000 on the business of 1922.

Asks Ford About it.

Having known all these facts since the first of the year, I asked Ford today how he was making out.

"We are making more cars, more tractors and more profits," he replied, "than ever before. Our average profits last year were a little more than $6,000,000 a month. Our average monthly profits so far this year have been considerably more than that. We are making 5,100 cars a day. This is every car we can possibly turn out with our present facilities; it is more than we ever made before, yet it is about 200 cars a day less than our orders."

During the year, I have told many business men throughout the country how Ford had apparently turned last years $76,000,000 profits into a $10,000,000 deficit by reducing the prices of his products, and as one man they had declared that in another concern it would seem an act of insanity.

This is how Ford explained it to me

"In fixing the price of anything we manufacture," he said, "we always fix a price that is below cost at the time it is made. The first thing that happens is that everybody is thereby put on his tiptoes. The most important effect, however, is the enormous broadening of the market that follows. We are driven to capacity and more today because we cut prices to less than what was cost a year ago. But our prices are no longer less than cost because we have refined our methods of production and are also able to buy our raw materials for less because we can buy in even larger quantities. As I said, we have reduced costs so much by reducing selling prices that we are making more cars and more tractors—and more profits - than ever before."

Can Be Applied Elsewhere.

I asked Mr. Ford if the same principles could not be applied to any industry.

"They not only could be applied," he said, "but they should be applied. What the public wants is service, and low prices give the maximum of service by making it possible for the greatest number to buy and use what is manufactured. What the manufacturer wants is profits, and a broad market with a small profit on each unit affords a great profit at the end of the year than a large profit on each of a small number of units.

"I marvel that manufacturers cannot see this. Apparently they do not. Their chief concern seems to be to include in cost every possible item and pile upon that the greatest profit they believe can be collected. It is a fatal policy. Many a concern has been wrecked by proceeding upon such lines."

Ford's cash balance is now upward of $200,000,000. Money has lost all meaning to him, except as an instrument with which to carry out his plans. A while ago, his secretary called his attention to a deposit of $2,000,000 in a bank at Windsor, Ont., that Ford has forgotten all about.

Lawyer Objects To Verdict But Court Says It Is Right

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 25.—Because the jury recommended leniency for his client, Attorney J. E. Willits registered objections in court when a verdict was brought in finding Bess Stanley guilty of resisting arrest. The objections were overruled. The attorney contended that the verdict of leniency, was a compromise and did not represent the true mind of the jury but the court held that it was in the province of the jury to make such a recommendation if it wished.

The case grew out of a raid on her home for liquor last spring. The penalty will be announced later.

Rich Girl, Poor Girl

AN ABSORBNG SERIAL BY

VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DEWATER

(Copyright, 1922, Star Company.)

CHAPTER LXXVIII.

Late that afternoon, Henry Hollingshead sent for his wife's attendant to come to him in the library.

The girl had pleaded the necessity of remaining in the sick-room as an excuse for not going down to the dining-room for luncheon. Miss Johnson was worn out. Adelaide must remain on duty.

A tray of luncheon had been brought up to Mrs. Hollingshead's sitting-room for her. The door connected with the sick-room was open. The patient could not move without the attendant's hearing her.

But Hannah Hollingshead moved seldom to-day. She was, when awake, too lethargic to speak more than a whispered word or two. Most of the time she slept.

Miss Johnson came back to the sick-room at five-thirty, it was then that Henry Hollingshead sent word to Adelaide that he would like to have a talk with her.

With a strange foreboding, she went downstairs. She had dreaded facing her employer—a dread that had increased as the day wore on. It was in vain for her to tell herself that she had done her best by him and his wife. Her morbid state of mind gave her a strange sense of guilt.

This was why she entered the library with an expression almost like fear on her pale face. Henry Hollingshead saw it with a little frown of disappointment.

An Embarrassing Moment.

She did not look like the brave, bright girl he had learned to like. Could he have been mistaken in her all these weeks? Could Patty have been mistaken in her?

The thought of his daughter may have softened his mood, for when he spoke it was in a kind voice.

"Come and sit down, Addie," indicating a large chair opposite his own.

She obeyed in silence. The library was in semidarkness. Its only illumination the glowing fire on the hearth. She saw from the denied couch-pillows that the occupant of the room had been resting before her entrance. Even in the flickering light he looked tired and worn. As Adelaide faced the fire, Henry Hollingshead looked hrerly at her. And he made the comment she was expecting—the comment that nurse and maid had made to her this morning.

"Your lip looks very sore—worse than last night. I am sorry."

"It will be all right soon," Adelaide tried to smile.

"My poor Hannah would be terribly distressed if she knew that she had hurt you."

"I am glad she does not know it," the girl said.

There was a long and awkward silence. Adelaide knew that the man was trying to say something, and finding it difficult. At last he spoke, slowly, awkwardly.

"You must know how much I appreciate all that you have done for us since you have been here. But for you, I do not know how we could ever have kept my poor wife from guessing the truth."

A Pertinent Question.

He paused. Adelaide raised a protesting hand. "Please, Mr. Hollingshead, do not trouble yourself to talk along those lines! I have only done my duty. But," with sudden courage, "I have been wondering if I would not best be going pretty soon. Understand—" as he started to protest—"that I am willing to stay here just as long as I can be of use to Mrs. Hollingshead. But, as she is now—I mean, if she continues to notice as little as she does to-day—perhaps you will not need, me!"

She had fortified herself to utter this—had repeated the phrase to herself again and again as she had sat in the sick-room upstirs.

"Do you want to go away?"

The question was asked in a low voice, as if the speaker were determined to keep all signs of emotion from words and manner.

She would not lie if she could help it. She hated the lies she had been obliged to tell. She must speak the truth now.

"What I want is of no consequence," she said. "I mean—you must consider, Mrs. Hollingshead—and your wishes—only."

"But I want to know if you wish to go?" the man insisted.

"If I am not necessary to Mrs. Hollingshead—yes."

"Why?"

She moved uneasily.

"Please, Mr. Hollingshead—is it worth while to go into all that? I do not need to assure you that you have been anything but kind to me. I am speaking honestly when I say this. Had I been your own daughter—or your daughter's best friend—you could not have been kinder, more considerate of me."

"You have done much for my wife," he reminded her. "And as I owe you a debt of gratitude, I do not find it easy to run the risk of making you uncomfortable now by speaking plainly. But I am a plain man—and I believe that the honest way is the best, always."

McKelvie Renews Offer of Soldiers Home to Veterans

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 25.—That the offer of the Soldiers' home in this city, by the state of Nebraska to the federal government, as tendered by resolution in the special session of the legislature this year, is not a dead issue, despite the fact that the United States Veterans bureau hass elected a hospital at Knoxville, Iowa, and another from this district, is indicated by a letter just received by State Representative John McLellan from Governor S. R. McKelvie.

Representative McLellan, chairman of the local committee interested in converting the home to a national institution, is informed that since the Knoxville selection, Governor McKelvie has renewed his offer to Colonel Forbes, chairman of the Veterans' bureau, and it is known that the hospitals so far chosen in the Ninth district, comprising the states of Nebraska, Missouri, Iowa and Kansas, will by no means answer the future requirements. In his letter, Governor McKelvie renewed the offer and said: "It seems to me that there is an opportunity for the federal government to obtain property that is well adapted to hospital use and is well located with reference to the territory that needs such facilities. I should like to suggest that you investigate this matter further."

Greek People Clamoring For Change At Athens

ATHENS, Sept. 25.—Athens is likely to be the scene of important political events as a result of the military disaster in Asia Minor, according to declarations by influential Greeks. A coup d'etat is mentioned as a possibility by which Constantinople will summon a distinguished leader, probably General Metaxas to conduct the affairs of state as premier, or even as a sort of dictator in an effort to rally the people about the existing regime and especially to support sending a powerful army into Thrace to check the Turkish invasion.

Constantine is described as undecided about his program but it is agreed that the present cabinet cannot long endure. The people are said to be on the point of demanding a change in the government. They insist on the right of saving Thrace with its rich fields so necessary to the future prosperity of Greece.

MAY LIVE OUT RISING CRISIS

Greek Cabinet Shows Sudden Strength and Likely to Survive Supreme Test.

Allied Note Acts As Undesired Ice-water Bath On the Masses.

(Associated Press.)

ATHENS, Sept. 25.—Spurred to greater effort by the popular clamor for its resignation, the cabinet of Premier Tsantafillakes is developing unexpected cohesion in strength and may even live out the present national crisis.

It has added new members to the ministry, chosen with the view to bring it popular support; has appointed General Papoulas governor general of Thrace and has designated three popular generals to proceed to Thrace and push the work of reorganizing the army there.

Meanwhile a not from the allied powers disclosing their communication to Mustapha Kemal Pasha according to his conditions for peace has reached the foreign office and has had the effect on the Grecian people of a frigid and undesired shower bath. The powers in their communication merely informed the Greek government of their action.

Greece is not looking for more trouble, said one official today, but she intends to go right on with the task of building up her army in Thrace. In Thrace, Greece is, and in Thrace Greece will remain, is the watchword today of the Greek people.

Thru the Window

"Oh! Ah! Expressions of admiration, intense interest follow a glimpse of our beautiful windows—perhaps the most distinctive we have ever shown.

"The artistic settings hold the feeling of the Italian Renaissance. The tall consoles with Roman lion supports, the beautiful tapestries of Italian inspiration, the rich draperies, the autumn leaves and seed pods; the glorified pumpkins with sons of sunny Italy atop typify the bounties of autumn — all contribute to the charm. But of greatest interest is the merchandise.

"A straw hat attracted a willful bit of boullion fringe. While it is able to hold it only by a narrow margin—the hat gains a certain chic through the uncertainty.

"No the lady did not get caught in the rain, she didn't get the dress rumpled accidentally—that crumbled black satin is the acme of intention accomplished. It is cloky off which you're due to hear much as the season advances.

"Which shall it be—the right or the wrong way? A bolt of satin faced cerise duvetyn wondered—then decided on both. The wrong on the right and the right on the wrong—sounds paradoxical but its just a twisting of this wonderful fabric so the silver satin face forms the collar of a graceful cape.

Scores of interesting things await you.

U. S. CAN HELP SETTLE TROUBLES THROUGH LEAGUE

Stanley High Tells Wesleyan Students Europe Needs America's Aid.

Says Germany Has Not Been Defeated—Militarism Is More Rife Than Ever.

Stanley High, author of "China's Place In The Sun," traveller in Europe and Asia, and graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan university, spoke before Wesleyan students Monday morning. Mr. High has recently returned from his European trip on which he studied educational conditions abroad. He said in part:

"In no particular has the world war failed to make conditions worse than they were before the war if we think we have defeated Germany we are mistaken. The military spirit of the people of Germany is not broken. The revolution at home caused the apparent defeat of Germany at the hands of the allies.

"Tyranny is more enthroned than ever," Mr. High declared. "There is less democracy in Europe today than in 1914. If we would solve our problems in time of peace, we would not have to settle these problems in time of war. The French are an agricultural people. England is a commercial nation and has a large merchant marine. England wants a strong commercial Germany. France wants a weak commercial Germany. England and France are in this respect at variance.

"No one believes Germany will ever be suppressed. Most of the people in Germany so hate France," Mr. High said, "that they will never be satisfied until France is wiped off the earth. Militarism in Germany is more rife than ever before. Germany has never made sincere effort to carry out the treaty of Versailles In less than two years in 1871 France paid more indemnity to Germany than Germany has paid in four years since the world war."

Mr High declared that the harbor of Hamburg has more business than ever before.

Defying Terms of Treaty.

"Germany is producing goods at less cost and is underselling in the great markets of the world," Mr. High asserted "German gold is being banked in large quantities in foreign countries. Just enough gold is being kept in Germany to keep business moving. Germany has refused to tax her industries She has deliberately set to work to defy the terms of the treaty of Versailles. She is sending her trained men to Russia to organize and train Russians and is exploiting the vast undeveloped resources of Russia, in return".

Mr. High declared that Russia and Germany will join in the next big war, which is already casting its menacing shadow across the European hearthstones.

He said "Germany and Russia will join together in the next war Germany in 1950 will be better off than any nation that passed through the last war. Europe will never be able to get out of the mire without help All are looking to the United States for help. This help can best be given by the United States if a part of the league of nations."

FIRE MARSHAL HURT IN CRASH

Others Also Injured When a Hartford Car Goes Into Ditch.

State Fire Marshal C. L. Hartford and Mrs. Hartford, living at 1441 M street, State Fire Inspector O. W. Rhoads, of Scottsbluff, and Mr. and Mrs Frishette of 910 H street were severely injured about noon Sunday on the Lincoln-Beatrice highway near Pickrell when Hartford's car was crowded off the road into a ditch by another automobile and turned over. Mrs. Frishette was the most seriously injured, receiving several broken ribs, injuries to her hips and painful bodily bruises. Mr. Rhoads who was pinned under the car, received painful cuts and a wrenched back Mrs Frishette and Mr Rhoads were taken to a hospital at Beatrice.

Fire Marshal Hartford said Monday morning that his injury consisted of severe bruises and an injured collar bone which however was not broken Mrs Hartford and Mr. Frishette were badly shaken up and received minor cuts and bruises Mr. and Mrs. Hartford, and Mr. Frishette returned to Lincoln in the Beatrice bus, which took Mrs. Frishette and Mr. Rhoads to the hospital at Beatrice soon after the accident

According to Mr. Hartford, the party was going to Beatrice, and Mr. Hartford said that he was driving behind another car and was crowded into the ditch when he sped up and attempted to pass the car. The occupants of the other car are not known, as the driver did not stop. The Hartford car was badly damaged and was taken to Beatrice later for repairs.

Kirby Gives First Hand Information Concerning Turkey

In the present controversary with Turkey, Great Britain is standing for the protection of the Christian minority and the freedom of the Dardanelles, allowing free passage to the Black sea, Dr. J. B. Kirby declared before a mass meeting of about 200 at the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Dr. Kirby recently returned from the Symrna region, where he was connected with the Near East relief work. He asserted that England is doing a great service to Christianity in restraining the Turks, and should have the support of the entire word. He spoke of the banishing from the country of missionaries, and of Turkish endeavors to start a holy war among Mohammedan populations. Dr. Kirby drew a startling picture of conditions in the Near East, as gathered from his personal experiences. A financial campaign for relief in that district will be started here in about three weeks.

Will Put Crimp In Rum Running Across Borders

WASHINGTON, Spt. 25.—Consideration is being given by the labor treasury and agricultural department to co-ordination of all the federal police forces along the nation's borders to the end that smuggling of narcotics, liquor and aliens may be more effectively checked.

Faced with a situation which has been described in some government reports as alarming, a committee of representatives of the three departments and of the department of justice, it was learned today, have completed an invitation and reached the conclusion that there must be closer co-operation between all federal forces if the international borders are to be properly guarded.

The recommendations of this committee which was headed by Commissioner General Husband of immigration have been presented to Secretary of Labor Davis and will in turn be considered by heads of the other departments controlling the various border forces.

The bootlegging "industry" Mr. Husband said, had become a menace along both the Canadian and Mexican borders and recalled the days when piracy was in full swing

Co-Eds to Shun Dates to Help Athletes Keep in Training

(International News Service.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Northwestern University co-eds shook a carefully trained permanent wave today and resolved to do a noble thing.

Monday, Tuesday and Thursday nights hereafter are to be "no date" nights.

"The pledge is taken because we girls believe too many dates interfere with a college man's athletics and the school will suffer if the athletes do not have proper time for their training," explained Miss Helen Bannoch, president of the Women's Self-Government association.

"Does this rule apply only to the mighty college men of valor, or all of us?" asked a thin-chested student with horn-himmed specs known in campus talk as a "heavy dater."

"Everybody," came in accents disconsolate.

Furthermore the new rules have it that lights must be out in all houses at 10:30 p .m. Callers may be received between 5 and 6 p. m. from Monday until Thursday; on Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 7 to 10 p. m.

"Riding in an automobile after 9 p. m. is forbidden excepting with a chaperone or in groups of more than one couple," is another rule.

"Women are not allowed on the campus after dusk except to visit the library or other buildings for definite college purposes," is another.

"No college women or groups of women may go to the city for dinner except with an escort or chaperone," says another rule.

KEMALISTS INVADE NEUTRAL ZONE BUT DECIDE TO RETIRE

Fall Back After Friendly Parley With Commander of British Forces.

Tension Is Eased and London Officials More Optimistic Than Ever.

(International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 25—Turkish troops that crossed the boundary of the allied neutral zone at the western end of the Dardanelles are withdrawing, it was officially reported to the British government today. According to advices received by the foreign office, the retirement was begun "after amiable conversations between the British and Turkish commanders"

The Turks fell back in the direction of Batra Mitch

The cabinet met to review the situation.

Optimism over the Near East is more marked than it was before the Paris note was drafted. This optimism has been strengthened by the following developments:

1. Advices from Constantinople saying that the note received a favorable reception and that belief prevails there that Kemal will accept the condition.

2 News that the Turkish cavalry that invaded the allied neutral zone at the western end of the Turkish straits is retiring.

Lord Curzon, foreign secretary who represented England in the Paris conversations, made a report to the cabinet today.

"We have established accord with the allies which is the most important thing," said Lord Curzon. "I am most hopeful."

When the armistice negotiations open it is expected that Kemal will demand the right to continue recruiting for the Turkish nationalist army so long as the British continue to strengthen their military position at Chanak on the Asiatic side of the Dardanelles

Athens reports that Kemal has given Greece seven days in which to remove the remainder of the Greek refugees from Asia Minor. The Greek foreign minister has asked the allies to intervene to secure longer period and also to furnish the Greeks with more transports.

Bouillon Speeds to Smyrna.

TOULON, France, Sept 25—Henri Franklin-Bouillon, French emissary, who is going to the Near East to make a personal request to Kemal not to go to war against the British, sailed for Smyrna today on the French cruiser Met.

M. Franklin-Bouillon is due to arrive at Smyrna on Thursday.

Will Hold Up Activities.

PARIS, Sept. 25.—"I am glad to be able to represent England, France and Italy instead of only France when I meet Mustanha Kemal Pasha," said M Franklin-Bouillon, the Near East emissary on the eve of his departure for Smyrna. I have already wired Kemal asking him to refrain from military activities, and he has consented to do so on the condition that I make speed."

HEARING ON CLAIM AGAINST RECEIVER

United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company Wants $5,894.59.

Hearing upon the claim of the United States Fidelity & Guaranty company against the receiver of the Farmers & Merchants bank of Walton for $5,894.59 was held before District Judge W M. Morning, Monday. While the claim is against the receiver, technically it runs against the Nebraska state guaranty fund.

The claim has to do with the $7,594.78 judgment obtained in district court here last May against the bonding company and Louis A. Berge, who was removed as administrator of the estate of the late Wilhelm Schult. Mr. Berge was formerly cashier of the Walton bank, now defunct. The $7 594.78 judgment was paid by the bonding company.

It is now claimed that Berge, as an officer of the Walton bank, deposited the amount claimed $5,894 59, in the bank and withdrew it two days later and has not replaced the amount. The deposit was made in the name of "Louis A. Berge, administrator," it was declared.

Berge has been missing from Lancaster county since about the first of this year. He is reported to be in Mexico. He failed to make an accounting or the money in his possession belonging to the Schuit estate and a new administrator, A. H. Coop, was appointed in his place.

The Walton bank receiver contended Berge had not made a deposit, but if it was determined he had it was as administrator of the state and not as an officer of the bank. The judge took the case under advisement.

HARDING TO STAY OUT OF CAMPAIGN

President Decides Not to Take Any Part In Speaking Program.

(International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—President Harding plans to take very little if any personal part in the campaign now getting under way to determine the political complexion of the Sixty-eighth congress, it was learned today.

As the titular head of his party, the president will from time to time participate in party councils and probably offer some suggestions and advice, but this will be in conference and not from the stump.

Numerous requests have been made of Mr Harding for speaking dates in various parts of the country during the six weeks that intervene between now and November 7, but invariably these have been turned down, and administration spokesmen said today there would be no presidential stumping this year with its accompanying exortation of the voters for a return of the congress of his own political liking.

The republican campaign managers, among them John T. Adams, chairman of the national committee and Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, have informed the president that the present republican of twenty-two in the senate will be mintained, but that in the house a severe cut in the present republican majority of 169 is to be expected.

While the president himself will take no speaking part in the fall political show, nearly all members of his cabinet will dip in from time to time with speeches, as will Vice President Coolidge.

UNDECIDED AS TO COURSE OF ACTION

Shopcraft Attorneys Undecided About Fighting Against Permanent Injunction.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Uncertainty as to whether attorneys for the defendants in the injunction issued by Federal Judge James H Wilkerson will continue the fight against it was voiced today by chief counsel for the defendants, Donald R. Richberg.

"We realize that to fight the attorney general's effort to have the temporary injunction made permanent would be a long and costly battle, taxing the resources of the ate will be maintained but that in On the other hand, the issue is a big one and it would be harmful to all organized labor if we were to drop it Just what policy will be pursued has not yet been determined, for I have not had a chance to talk the matter over with my clients."

Attorneys for both sides were scheduled to appear before Judge Wilkerson today to argue on the form the temporary injunction is to take. Efforts to obtain a review of the courts opinon by the circuit court of appeals will in the mean time be prosecuted with vigor, Richberg said, until the definite policy to be pursued by the shopmen is determined by the executive council at the same time the signal men who withheld their strike order upon the promise of the railroad labor board to review their case, appeared today before the board seeking a change in certain working rules.

The signal men were represented by D. W. Helt, their president, and contended that overtime pay should begin after the eighth hour instead of after the ninth which is now the rule. The signalmen also asked an increase in pay which had been cut five cents an hour by the board's decision effective on July 1.

Prospects that the signal men would be granted a slight increase were promising today.

Miles Turns Down Scheme to Combine With South Dakota

(Special to The Star.)

GRAND ISLAND, Neb., Sept. 25.—Referring to a report in Sunday newspapers to the effect that he had been consulted with reference to a tri-state league next year including South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska cities, President Miles of the Nebraska league not only states he was never consulted, but that the South Dakota proposition involves such distances as to make the proposal ridiculous. He adds that the Beatrice management also has not a thought entering such a combination.

Mr. Miles states that if Lincoln drops out, Sioux City, Norfolk and Columbus might make a good circuit. That Council Bluffs could easily be added and that, in any event, the present State league circuit will be increased to eight teams next year.

The inevitable was postponed a day or so by Roger's Hornsby and the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat the Giants, 10 to 6, with the latter needing only one game to nail the National league pennant down tighter than a hangman's rope. Hornsby smote No. 11 and 42 of the season, stepping further out from Ken Williams in the home run sweepstakes. They were made at the expense of the Barnes brothers, Jess and Virgil

Still hanging on grimly, the Browns managed to keep within a mathematical peerspective of the pennant by disposing of the Athletes, 7 to 4.

Bob Meusel's failure to connect up with a high fly by Summa in the seventh started the Indians off the way to a 3 to 0 victory over the Yankees, reducing the lead to 2½ games. Both Shawkey and Uhle pitched fine baseball, only one Yank the esteem Mr. Ruth getting as far as third.

After dropping the opening game to the Dodgers, 4 to 2, through the good pitching of Grimes, the Pirates rushed right back to take the second, 11 to 3, clubbing four hurlers with neither fear nor favor. The victory kept the Pirates in the class of mathematical possibilities, for the pennant.

A five-run rally in the eighth carried the Tigers right on over Pennock and the Red Sox to a 7 to 2 win, giving the Cobb entry a record of 17 victories in 22 starts against the Boston Sox this year.

An error by Mostil, followed by a flock of base hits, gave the Senators a victory over the White Sox in their final meeting of the year

Secretary Hughes, just back from Rio de Janeiro, saw newspaper correspondents for a short time today but declined to discuss departmental affairs until he had an opportunity to study matters which have transpired during his absence from Washington.

LENINE SOON TO RETURN TO DESK

Keeps Posted On World Events and Watches What Borah Does.

(Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Sept. 25. — Premier Lenine is soon to return to active duty, it is announced by the newspaper Pravda which devotes a specially illustrated supplement to the cabinet chief.

While still recuperating at his country place, Lenine, according to Acting Premier Kameneff has interested himself in international questions and home affairs He is particularly interested in the activities of United States Senator Borah, as hearing on Russia and the work of the American relief administration. Lenine will appear as the principal speaker at the fourth congress of the third internationale congress in Petrograd in November giving his views on the "world revolution"

M Stalin, a member of the council of commissars, quotes the premier as saying he considers the great powers greedy and inimical to one another's interests and on this account thinks it likely they "may at any time fly at each other's throats" Meanwhile, he says Russia "can afford to await the outcome of the conflict" because she has selected the "sure and smoother path of peace and mutual agreements, steering straight and yielding neither to threats nor flatters."

Complains Against Long Wait to Buy Railroad Ticket

Waiting two or three hours on the railroad depot employes to sell him a ticket and check his baggage is not what C. F Edwards 523 South Eighth street, Lincoln regards as good service That is what happened to him he says at McCook on the evening of September 8, when he went to the Burlington station to buy his ticket and have his baggage checked for an early train the next morning. He is asking the railway commission if it cant stir things up and bring about some improvement in such conditions.

Edwards claims he went to the depot early in the evening, but couldnt get anyone there to wait on him He hung around nearly two hours before the man in the ticket office deigned to open the window, and then a bunch of railroad employes "ganged about the window to collect their time checks" while h ewaited some more.

Finally he got his ticket, but had to stand around awhile longer before he could get his baggage checked by the man having that in charge.

"It was like trying to find a drink to elcate the day or the night ticket man." Edwards re ports. He thinks the railroads should be required to post placards showing the hours when depots are open for business and then he required to look after the business during those hours

CHARGE TEACHER ATTACKED PUPIL

Superintendent at Gretna Arrested For Alleged Beating of Boy.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 25.—E. L. Witte, superintendent of the Gretna, Neb., public schools was to be arranged before County Judge Wheat at Papillion Monday morning on a charge of assault and battery in connection with an alleged attack on Howard "Burk" Watson, 11, fourth grade pupil in the school room last Monday.

The complaint against Witte was filled by Arthur Watson, Standard Oil company agent, father of the boy. Witte was arrested Friday afternoon when a deputy sheriff took him from his class room to arrange bond.

Witte refused to discuss the case. According to allegations, the Watson boy and two companions were fighting on the school grounds when the superintendent interrupted, taking the Watson boy into the school room and whipping him.

It is alleged by Watson that Witte whipped the lad with a rubber hose. Parents of the boy say that he is in delicate health and that his back was black and blue from the beating which, they declare, caused a severe nervous shock, also.

When asked why he chose only the one lad for a whipping, Witte is quoted as saying that the other boy had a bloody nose and he thought he had been punished enough.

Upon learning of the incident at noon, Watson went to the school building and waited for the return of the principal from lunch. A troop of school boys followed at his heels.

"When he came back from lunch, he refused to discuss the incident and walked into the school room. I did not follow," said Watson.

"Our boy was in ill health at the time and it has been necessary to keep him from school for several days," he added. "He is now able to be up and around although his back still bears the marks of the attack."

Three special meetings of the school board have been held on the affair. Watson and his wife attended one of the meetings but were requested to leave the room while proposed action was being discussed by the board. As yet no action has been taken.

This is Witte's second year as school superintendent. He has one child attending the school. Watson also has a 5-year-old child attending school.

Big County Fair At Clay Center To Begin Tuesday

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 25. — The Clay county fair gives every indication of being the largest and best yet held at that place, when it opens Tuesday. Inquiry at Clay Center reveals the fact that the large stock barns are already filled, that new hog and sheep pens are being hastily constructed to take care of the large increase in entries and that a tent is being erected to take care of the overflow cattle.

The poultry house is the largest in the state and gives outward evidence of the reputation held by Clay county of being a poultry center.

Entries for the races show the high standard of the speed program of the Clay county fair will be maintained this year. The pick of the horses from the Nelson, Kearney and Alblon fairs are entered at Clay Center and others will compete. President Johnson declares the track has never been in better condition.

The Clay county fair has long since ceased to be a one day fair, that is one which the visitor may see in full in a single day. It is entirely out of the class of the smaller fairs and in buildings, attendance, variety and quality of exhibits as well as in diversity and high class entertainment, it ranks among the best in the state.

TO MAKE SURVEY IN FOUR COUNTIES

Supplementary Water Project To Go Forward At Once.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Sept. 25. —During the past few days meetings have been held at Minden, Holdrege and Hastings by friends of the supplemental water project and it has been decided to raise the $5,000 necessary to complete the preliminary survey in Adams, Kearney, Phelps and Gosper counties.

This move was decided upon when information came to Kirk Griggs from Washington a few days ago, that Secretary Fall of the department of the interior had decided the project did not come under the head of reclamation but under new projects, and accordingly there was no appropriation to bear the expense.

The joint resolution passed by the senate and the house did not carry an appropriation, and when the delegation from here was at Washington some two months ago, they gained the impression that the expense could be borne by appropriations for reclamation work.

Upon learning that the department ruled that it could not bear the expense of the survey, C. W. McConaughey and C. P. Kingsley of Minden went to Washington to assure the department that the communities concerned would pay for the survey and to offer to deposit the amount, provided the work could be done at once.

Secretary Fall told them that the department would make the survey if authorized by congress and it is believed here that the joint resolution already passed will be found sufficient authority for the survey.

KLAN PAYS VISIT TO NEBRASKA CITY

Followers of Fiery Cross From Lincoln in Silent Demonstration.

NEBRASKA CITY, Sept. 25.—Led by a blazing cross and United States flag, thirty Ku Klux Klansmen staged a parade here at mid-night Saturday, which furnished thrills a plenty for spectators and provided cause for unlimited speculation. Local klansmen are said to be as much in the dark regarding the visit as others. The visitors are thought to have come from Lincoln. Rumors as to the import of the demonstration are rife.

Although the visitation had been rumored for several days, few people were on the streets at midnight, when eight cars, all with Lancaster county license numbers, were driven quietly to a central point down town. Twenty-nine hooded and sheeted figures disembarked and formed with military precision for the parade. No commands were given, but the klansmen, each with a crimson K. K. K. on his breast, silently performed a short march, reentered their machines and drove away.

Long after the departure of the robed figures, the town was buzzing over the import of the visit. No explanation was offered, and the klansmen did nothing to indicate thch purpose.

WONDERING WHAT COURT WILL SAY

Will Poulin Be Held For Trial As the Father of "Love Baby?"

Defendant To Go On Stand in Effort to Complete Alibi.

(International News Service.)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 25.—"What will the court say?"

That was the question in the minds of those following the Tiernan-Poulin paternity case as the hearing was taken up again today.

Will Judge Chester Ducomb hold Harry Poulin for trial as the father of Mrs. Augusta Tiernan's self-confessed "love baby" on the story wrung from the woman of her illicit romance with the haberdasher, supported by the evidence given by her husband, Prof John P. Tiernan of Notre Dame university?

Will the alibi plea of the defense be sufficiently conclusive to clear Poulin of the charge against him?

The hearing was drawing to a close today.

Harry Poulin was expected to complete the mass of direct testimony by taking the stand today. But his evidence, it was stated, would be restricted.

He will go into only a few of the things that Mrs. Tiernan related in her story. He will confine his testimony to the period between February 18 and March 27, 1921.

Mrs. Tiernan's Charges.

Mrs. Tiernan said that Poulin had gained her love in February of last year. Furthermore, she testified that she and her husband did not live together as man and wife from January until April in 1921.

She has testified to keeping a number of clandestine trysts with Poulin during the Lenten season of that year and has sworn that her baby born last November is the child of Poulin.

The defense has set up the plea of an alibi against the story of the woman.

Testimony has been given in an effort to prove that Poulin and Mrs. Tiernan were not alone together during the dates specified. Poulin's testimony and that of one or two other defense witnesses remained to be added today.

As a sidelight of the sensational case, Professor Tiernan will this week submit a sample of his blood to Dr. Albert Abrams, San Francisco specialist, in an effort to dispel all doubts as to whether or not he is the father of the baby. Dr. Abrams' blood tests have gained legal status in California courts, it is stated, in proving parentage.

"It will probably be impossible to compel Mr. Poulin to submit to a blood test," Tiernan said, "but I am making arrangements to have a test made of my blood and the baby's. The result will show whether I am the father of the child."

LINCOLN PEOPLE HEAR NOTABLES

Members of Sulgrave Institution Tell of Mission—Go to Sioux Falls.

The Sulgrave Institution delegation that spent Saturday and Sunday as guests of Lincoln, departed for Sioux Falls, S. D., Sunday afternoon at 4:30. They spent a short period in Omaha during the evening while changing trains.

Three of the distinguished guests spoke briefly from Lincoln church pupits Sunday. After the regular services at the First Congregational church, Sir Arthur A. Haworth of Manchester, England, parliament member of the Manchester Exchange, emphasized the absence of national lines within the church. That the Christian and educational forces of the world would some day be organized to bring relief to a troubled world, was his ardent desire.

The history and purpose of the Sulgrave Institutions were outlined by H. S. Perrin, secretary and director of the British Sulgrave, from the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church. Cementing the tie between the two large English-speaking countries and pulling them out of their present plight, is the prime object of the Institutions.

Sir Arthur Wakelfield, ex-lord mayor of London, addressed the congregation at St. Paul's Methodist church, and appealed for the moral support of Americans which England sorely needs. He frankly admitted that since the war, America has the greatest moral influence of any nation.

Harold Spender, prominent English journalist, addressed the Copybook club and women guests, on the subject of British journalism, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlisle Logan-Jones, 1845 D street, Sunday afternoon. Mr. Spender and Captain W. L. DeVoto, who is acting as an aid to the party, answered several questions put to them by Lincoln newspaper men. The fact that the editorial page is being crowded out by news was not considered as encouraging by Mr. Spender.

The party expressed great satisfaction with the cordial and pleasant entertainment and attention received while in Lincoln. Their tour of the United States will terminate at Washington, D. C., October 12, where President Harding will received a statue of Edmund Burke as a gift from the British.

From the Old Battleship Nebraska

—The war made junk of the Battleship Nebraska and the people of Nebraska 15 years ago had donated for this Battleship with money raised by popular subscription a Silver Service costing $3,500.
—This Silver Service comprises of a tureen with silver shaded lamps, a silver screen cover, a punch bowl, ladle, tray, individual drinking cups and a loving cup.
—When the Nebraska was junked by the Navy department this Silver Service was placed in storage at Mare Island, California. Gov. McKelvie was notified to take it off their hands.
—For the time being, part of this service can now be seen in the Rudge & Guenzel company's show windows. The service eventually will be given exhibition space in our forthcoming new Capitol building.

WHAT "REGULATION" COSTS THE PEOPLE.

Henry Ford announces that he has bought all the coal needed for the operation of his factors at $3.50 a ton, which is $1 a ton less than the "fair price" allowed by Secretary Hoover under government regulation. Ford predicts that the mine prices of coal will tumble in the near future and that within a year it will be $2 a ton less than it is now.

"If Hoover had kept his hands off and the interstate commerce commission had not issued its rule restricting coal shipments, competition would have kept the price of coal where it was," says the automobile manufacturer. "Hoover and the members of the interstate commerce commission are simply mallets with which the banking clique that finances the coal brokers hammer the public. They [illegible] public welfare but they do not do it. At that, they are no worse than the men who control other departments of the government."

This is pretty strong language, but it must be admitted that the experience of the American people with most kinds of governmental regulation bears out the truth of Ford's statements.

Government regulation of the sugar supply a few years ago forced consumers to pay as high as $25 per 100 pounds, as compared with a normal price of $6 to $8. Prices of coal began to soar when the government took control of that commodity and limited its distribution during the war, and the same thing was repeated this year in time of peace. The "fair prices" fixed for foodstuffs by government administrators were in many cases too high.

Regulation of railroad, Pullman express, telegraph and telephone rates by federal and state commission has resulted in all of them being advanced far above prewar levels, while the farmer's products are back on the old price basis. The farmer, needless to say, has nobody to guarantee him a profit on what he produces. He has to take his chances. But the big common carriers and public utilities, which monopolize their respective fields, get the government to fix prices for their service, enabling them to declare good dividends.

While all this is going on, the people are taxed to support all the various regulating agencies.

Henry Ford has furnished a valuable object lesson in what the public could do to protect itself if the government would keep hands off, instead of "regulating" so much.

Here in Nebraska, the issue in the state campaign hinges directly on whether the people of this state want more of such "regulation," under the code law, or want less of it. The temper of the people seems to be decidedly in accord with Ford's views.

DID AMERICA DESERT?

Members of the Sulgrave delegation gave Lincoln people a more graphic picture of America's standing abroad than has been presented for some time.

Almost without exception the distinguished visitors expressed regret that America was not participating in world affairs. There was no reproach intended—rather a feeling of sorrow that the most powerful and influential nation in the world was holding aloof. It was a distinctly tragic note which they sounded, for their proximity to the seat of trouble has forced them to look with undimmed eyes on the future of civilization.

Mr. Spender, the British journalist, talked more plainly than the other members of the delegation. He frankly confessed that he could not understand the foreign policy of America but hazarded the statement that in Europe there was the feeling that America had deserted in the hour of need.

The next few years will determine whether America can successfully practice her policy of isolation.

It is the fervent hope of all, however, that out of the whole mess of hatreds and chaos will come order and peace -a peace based on the recognition of the rights of all nations and all nationalities for orderly development.

TYRUS RAYMOND COBB.

George Sisler, the St. Louis star first baseman, has been awarded the honor of being the most valuable player in the American league. Thousands of sport fans throughout the United States will rejoice with the Browns in the committee's selection.

Sisler is all that baseball could wish. He is leading the American league in batting. He is leading in base-stealing and run-making. He is one of the game's most finished fielders. There is nothing which Sisler can't do in baseball and do well. Moreover, he represents a type of player who is a gentleman on the field and off—a magnificent fellow who has always been a source of inspiration to his associates.

While the honors are being passed around there is another ball player who occupies a niche in the hearts of thousands of American fans which can never be filled by another. That is Tyrus Raymond Cobb, the Detroit manager now rounding out his seventeenth consecutive year in major league baseball. For continued brilliancy of play, Cobb beyond question ranks as the greatest ball player of all time. The Georgia peach is runner-up to Sisler for batting honors, with only a few points below the coveted mark. In all of his seventeen years, Cobb has batted .300 or better in all but the first. He has led the league in batting more seasons than any other man. For years he was the league's leading base runner until advancing years made it necessary for him to avoid risk of injury incident to base-stealing. Two years ago Cobb was called to the managership of the Detroit Tigers. Last year he was runnerup for batting honors, with only a fraction separating him and Harry Heilmann, also of the Tigers. This year he's again pushing the leader.

When the modern record for consecutive hitting was broken by Sisler, Cobb wired him a telegram of congratulation, although it was Cobb's record that he smashed.

Cobb was not eligible for consideration in connection with the award. The years have already given him rich honors. Ty Cobb never commercialized his sport. He played for love of the game and played brilliantly.

One of the great unsolved mysteries: How can the owner of a flivver distinguish his own from several thousand of like appearance?

Comment by the Press

HENRY FORD'S MONEY.

The little old flivver rolling out of Henry Ford's factories at the rate of 1,300,000 cars for the current calendar year, has further fortified the remarkable financial position of the Ford Motor company with an indicated profit of $58,000,000 for the ten months ended Feb. 28, 1922. These revelations are in the Ford balance sheet as of that date, filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of corporations.

This balance sheet shows no notes payable, for the first time since 1918. Borrowings to effect purchase of minority stockholders' interests for $108,000,000, which stood at $72,000,000 in the 1919 balance sheet have been extinguished. The Ford Motor company has weathered the difficulties of this purchase, and the general financial depression of the latter part of the next year. It now stands as wholly Ford owned, with record cash, working capital, surplus and earning power.

The family is in possession of a business whose gross, unless plants are shut down, will exceed $700,000,000 for the current calendar year, and whose net should be at least $75,000,000 on a capital of a little more than $17,000,000. The original cash investment a score of years ago was $28,000. The three stockholders are Henry Gord, 95,321 shares; Edsel B. Ford, 71,911 shares, and Mrs. Henry Ford 5,412, a total of 172,645 shares.

Ford's financial crisis came in the midwinter of 1920. He mastered his difficulties by shipping out nearly 125,000 cars, with bills of lading attached, forcing his 17,000 agents to accpt them at cash. At the same time, he compelled suppliers to extend their credit. He established co-ordination with his railroad, the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, releasing, through improved transport, $28,000,000 previously tied up in inventories. He inaugurated a ruthless house cleaning and scaling down of expenses, extending even to the point of removing 60 per cent of the factory telephone connections, and reducing from fifteen to nine the number of employes necessary to produce a Ford car a day.

Fortune's smile has never been clouded since early 1921. Though blessed with a record breaking business of 5,200 cars a day, Mr. Ford has displayed a degree of financial astuteness totally unexpected, and resented by many agents and suppliers because of its relentlessness, yet marvelous in its results.

Ford had, on Feb. 28, $109,232,000 in cash, compared with $35,657,000 April 30, 1921. The six months in which is gathered the cream of the motor business have since elapsed, and Ford has now cash exceeding $180,000,000.

The Feb. 28 balance sheet shows, in addition to the $109,232,000 cash, debts receivable of an additional $39,383,000. There are also securities totaling $16,250,768, of which 75 per cent are estimated to be government and municipal issues, making total cash or equivalents nearly $165,000,000. The peculiar item of "furniture, fixtures and autos" of $39,221,860 represents largely finished automobiles and parts, presumably those in transit to or held by Ford assembling stations over the country. Inventories stand at $45,203,094, less by $18,000,000 than the $63,848,157 of April 30, 1921.

A more remarkable transformation has taken place in Ford's liabilities, all of which can properly be classed as current, and which, aside from tax reserves, show a reduction of about $18,000,000 from last year, and of $69,000,000 from 1919. Only outstanding obligations, aside from the $58,000,000 tax reserve and the less than $1,000,000 miscellaneous charges, are $33,089,894 accounts payable.

In the last two years, Ford has more than doubled his cash and debts receivable, from $62,000,000 to $148,000,000, and the date, two years ago—June 30, 1920—was before the Ford company experienced financial difficulties of deflation. In the same period Ford reduced inventories by more than $10,000,444, even if the entire $39,000,000 "furniture, fixtures and autos" is figured as inventory. The decrease from last year is $24,000,000 on the same basis. The rate of car sales has increased since 19020, from 1,027,000 to 1,300,000, or about 28 per cent. While inventories were decreasing 11 per cent fixed investments increased less than $4,000,000, or about 2.6 per cent, standing now at $81,026,633 for real estate, and $49,041,132 for machinery and equipment.—Wall Street Journal.

"USURPATION BY THE EXECUTIVES."

An extraordinary feature of the tariff measure is the vesting in the president of authority to alter the basis of valuation from foreign to American valuation, if, in his opinion, the measure of 50 per cent in the specified duty under the present system is not sufficient protection.

Ostensibly this is to carry out the idea of a flexible tariff, which is well enough within limits. But really it is a political compromise of the struggle between the manufacturing interests, which want a sky-high tariff in the guise of the American valuation scheme, and the commercial and other interests, which are opposed to excessive or prohtibitory rates. Both sides are strong and congress has not found it pleasant to declare decisively for one or the other. It has inclined to foreign valuation, but it has thrust on the president the authority to change to American valuation, which is in effect to make a new tariff upon a new principle, a duty which belongs to congress, not to the executive.

The shifting of responsibilities from the legislative to the executive power is a trick to which popular government is given in time of trial. We talk of executive usurpation, but more power is acquired by the executive through legislative evasion or imposition. It is true that the executive tends to absorb power, partly because of the natural human will to power, but also through a necessity inherent in the executive function to get things done. But even when ambition seeks complete control, political expediency clothes its acquisitions in the honorable guise of necessity.

It is the inefficiency and the impulse to avoid responsibility of the weaker powers of government that gives autorracy its opportunity. Augustus Caesar did not seize an imperial crown and place it on his head with one defiant gesture. He took over one function after another, one power after another, because it appeared to be necessary or at least desirable. Thus power preceded authority and autocracy grew by a concentration which seemed natural and inevitable.

This is a law of political evolution and it operates to some extent in our own country, when congress, wishing to avoid unpleasant political consequences, avoids an issue and waits for events to force the excutive to act under compulsion of public necessity. Thus executive power expands over the lines laid by definite legislative grant and by a process which really eliminates the legislative function.

This will occur in the case of strikes in public service whenever a situation which involves public safety is allowed to develop and when legislative bodies have failed to lay a foundation of law for effective executive action: for example, to declare unlawful strikes of policemen, firemen, or employes in other essential services like mining and transportation.

Theorists call this usurpation. But in our country, at least, it is imposition, the imposition upon the executive of a responsibility which belongs primarily to the legislature and has been shirked.

We have in the United States a collateral evil, arising from the stability and power we have wisely given to the judiciary. With us, when the evasion of duty by the legislature has left the executive to act in an emergency, the latter seeks not unnaturally to pass the responsibility on, or so much of it as it can, to the courts. The result is more accretion of power by interpretation or precedent rather than by legislation. And this, too, is labeled usurpation, although it is imposition.

This is not a wise method of governmental evolution. Its key is fear of political defeat in the legislative branch, not will to power in the executive and judicial branches. If our legislatures will not invest essential definite powers in the executive, necessity forces the executive to take them in order to perform the duties required of the executive. It is deception to call this usurpation and efforts to correct its abuse cannot and should not prevail if they ignore the true nature of the evil.—Chicago Tribune.

CUBAN INTERVENTION AGAIN?

Gen. Crowder, as President Harding's special representative at Havana, has too often and too recently told President Zayas and the Cuban congress and the Cuban people what is demanded of them by the United States to leave them in any possible doubt. That nothing has come of his mission there in the way of effective reforms is not due to any restraint on his part or hesitancy in transmitting orders.

So the statement on Cuban affairs published by the state department is not to be misread as merely a warning to Cuba. Very plainly it is intended to let the people of the United States know that American intervention again in Cuba is not far off. Of course nothing is openly said about intervention. That would not be in the proper diplomatic manner. But the same end may be served by making a strong case against the Cuban congress for its recalcitrancy; then later, when the public mind is more fully prepared, the subject may be resumed with less effort to evade its immediate hearings.

What the state department actually says is that in spite of Gen. Crowder's repeated remonstrances the Cuban government has done nothing to remedy conditions there and is altogether at fault. What it declines to say in so many words but wishes to be clearly understood is that the administration is meditating intervention in Cuba but as usual cannot quite make up its mind.—New York World.

INVESTIGATORS OF THE CODE SYSTEM REPORT FINDINGS

Say Stuhr Collected Four Times As Much In Fees as McKelvie Claims.

Committee Believes Chief Clerks Could Do Work of Department Heads.

If all the "information" gathered by the legislative committee of the farmers' union, in its recent interviews with Governor McKelvie's code secretaries and bureau chiefs, is like that which it got from the agriculture department, the committee had better do some further investigating.

In a report furnished to the press giving the results of its lenquiries, this committee credits the agriculture department alone with paying over $5,000,000 of fees into the state treasury.

The most that Governor McKelvie claims for all of his six code departments in the way of fees collected is $1,225,000 per annum. This amount is what the republican state committee has been using in its litrature. But the farmers' union investigators, who got their information by consulting the code secretaries, goes the governor and the state committee one better and credits them with four times as much as they themselves claim.

Farmers' Union Against Code.

The Nebraska farmers' union, in its state convention at Lincoln two months ago, went on record as condemning the code law and demanding its appeal. This ies the authoritative expression of the organization, and the matter of approvising or disapprovising the system does not rest with any committee.

Those who conducted the "investigation" were C. C. McLead of Stanton, A. L. Ullstrom of Wahoo, and J. O. Shroyer of Humboldt. The first two or these are reppublicans. Mr. McLead was until recently a member of the republican state committee. Mr. Ullstrom is a republican member of the Nebraska legislature. Mr. Shrower, the only democrast in the trio, ran for United States senator in th primaries last July and failed to carry a single county.

Considering the composition of the committee and that it got its "facts" direct from the code people, it is not surprising that this paragraph appears in its report to the newspapers:

"The code has not created as large a number of new offices and officials as it is supposed, but it has reorganized the old system and gathered the scattered activities to function in a business-like manner. Six new secretaries have been created with an aggregate in salaries of $30,000.

Slight Slap on the Wrist.

Without mentioning the milage abuse, the multiplication of red tape, and the doubling of the cost of the state government which are outstanding features of the code administration, the report goes on to say:

"It has removed from the people the right to elect these department heads; it has put a powerful organized system before every legislature, which can assume official dictation and make it hard for the people to be heard. In fact, we will have to admit that it put organized government against unorganized citizens. On the other hand, it holds a check on located responsibility, and has the power to estimate and check proposed expenditures and action on the part of the various departments.

"We found no work done by the department heads that might not be done were chief clerks appointed under constitutional elective officers.

"After careful investigation and consideration, we demand the retention of the budget system under any plan that might prevail, for the prevention of deficiencies and the misapplication of the various department funds, and that it presents reliable estimates for legislative action."

Budget Established Under Neville

The budget system, which the committee says should be retained, was established by the democratic legislature of 1917 and first put into operation by Governor Neville. The first state budget was submitted by Neville to the legislature with his message in January, 1919, at the time he retired from office.

Total appropriations recommended by Governor Neville in his budget were less than half those included in Governor McKelvie's budget, submitted in 1921. The McKelvie budget was made up by Code Finance Secretary Bross, the total being in excess of $26,000,000.

The legislative vote for and against the code law in 1919, and on the four referred laws, is included in the committee's report.

Complimentary reference is made to the work of the state hail insurance, the bureau of health, and the child welfare bureau. The committee found that Mrs. Hornberger, director of child welfare, has only one assistant, when in fact she has three.

It recomends that state and federal road funds be definitely separated, and that federal roads be maintained entirely by the federal government. Staete road expenditures, the committee thinks, should be distributed over a grater milagee of highwaeys, and the cost per mile should be cut down.

LINCOLN'S WATER SUPPLY.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 25.—To the Editor of The Star. Our water commissioner says we have an unlimited water supply here. Why couldn't he have told us this in August instead of frantically waving his hands and threatening to prosecute us if we used any water on our gardens and lawns.

Ten months in the year we are told what a wonderful water system we have and the other two months when we need water the most are told not to use any. The reason assigned is usually that the pumps are out of order. That was the reason this year. The reason the pumps were out of order was because the water had failed and trying to pump air and sand had undoubtedly knocked the pumps out.

Mr. Schroeder has been on the city council for about twenty years most of the time trying to get water for the city and now the solution offered is a new reservoir and some more wells in a valley already pumped nearly dry.

I hereby accuse the water department of spending over $50,000 on wells, air left pumps with pipe and connections in the Antelope valley. That has not been of any appreciable value to the city. If fifty thousand dollars is too much won't you please give us the correct amount. Most of these old Well sites have been carefully covered up so that even the driller couldn't find them now, but the books ought to show the amount spent on this useless work.

A reservoir at Van Dorn will not add anything to our water supply. It will only save up for an emergency that the commissioner feels sure will come again next year and he is right about that. Now instead of putting some more wells where thousands of dollars have already been spent on dry holes, why not put the next well in a valley that has never been pumped dry and there is such a valley within the city limits. It is an old river channel under Dakota sandstone. The channel is at least thirty feet deep with the overlying sand feet deep with the overlaying sand and is several miles in length. Four twelve inch wells sunk in this old channel could be deepened to furnish four million gallons a day indefinitely. Instead of spending thirty-five thousand dollars on a reservoir why not tap this other reservoir that nature has built?

This reservoir is below frost and nicely sodded over its entire length and hasn't cost us a nickel. At a low estimate it has over two hundred million gallons of water already in it and all it needs is some wells and pumps to get out several million gallons a day.

About ten years ago we located a well for a farmer at the upper end of this same valley. The well is forty-five feet dep with thirty-five feet of water and a windmill has never been able to lower the supply. This is several miles outside the city but the valley comes within the city limits and no one has ever found any salt at any point.

There is only one solution of Lincoln's water problem and that is to tap a new supply but there is a new supply ready just as soon as the powers in authority get through trying to find water where there isn't any.

is one of the modern conveniences which has assumed a place of first importance in the community. The trouble, inconvenience, danger and loss of time that would result if all the telephone lines were silent for a single day would be appalling. Such a condition must not be permitted to exist, and the faithful and conscientious work of loyal employes is your assurance of continuous service.

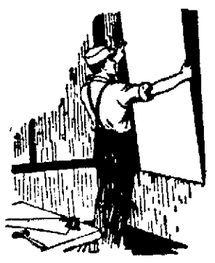
Remember the "Forgotten Room"



There are tens of thousands of them scattered through this country—"forgotten rooms" that are never used at all, or are used only for storing odds and ends.

Some of them are in city houses, where sleeping room for the extra guest is so often a problem. Some of them are in fine old country homes, where Mother would like a cheerful corner all her own for sewing or reading. Some of them are simply unfinished rooms that no one ever thought of as a part of the house to be lived in.

You can make the "forgotten room" as cozy, as attractive, as useful as the rest of the house by finishing it with wall board. And by using Richardson Wall Board you can do it at a surprisingly low price. There is also a wide variety of other uses for this product—for garages, barns, summer camps and similar purposes.

RICHARDSON
Wall Board

This product of The Richardson Company is low in price compared with any good wall board. For Richardson methods, plus quantity production, keep the price down and the quality up.

Richardson Wall Board is strong and durable. It is thoroughly sized inside and out, takes paint well, and requires an astonishingly small amount of paint for a really beautiful finish.

Remember the "forgotten rooms" this year. Just telephone us the measurements, and we'll tell you how little it will cost to make such rooms part of the home.

IS HOSTESS AND NURSE TO FLYER

Princess Hermine Turns Castle Into Hospital When Aviators Hurt Near Home.

(Copyright, 1922, by International News Service.)

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Princess Hermine Von Schoenach-Carolath, of Reuss, who is to marry the ex-kaiser early in November, acted as both hostess and nurse when two men were injured in an airplane crash near the princess' castle at Saabord, Silesia, on Sunday. The airplane turned turtle, crashing to earth in a field not far from the imposing Reuss castle.

Of the four occupants two miraculously escaped injury, but two others were hurt. All were taken into the castle. In the airplane were Ludwig Hassenpfeug, a former captain in the German army; William Strunk, a famous Austrian aviator, who piloted Enver Pasha from Kovno to Moscow on the famous flight when Enver was captured, Toni Raab, famous German war acee, who was piloting the machine and the writer.

Captain Hassenpfeug and Captain Strunk were caught under the falling plane and hurt. Raab and the writer escaped with only a bad shaking up.

The wreckage lay less than 100 yards from the castle. The noise of the crash aroused the occupants and servants came rushing out to see what happened. The occupants of the plane were carried into the castle.

Servants assisted the two injured men into the imposing old mansion, where all were cordially received. The princess appeared and after asking a few questions took charge of the work of caring for the injured. She proved a veritable sister of mercy.

A wing of the castle was hastily fixed up as a hospital for the two wounded flyers and arrangements were made for them to remain over night, or until they were able to travel. The accident happened early in the morning and all four occupants of the machine spent the entire day in the castle.

In the evening a motor car was placed at the disposal of the pilot and the writer if they wished to go to the nearest railway station to take a train back to Berlin.

The smashed airplane was left in the field.

Wilkens to Trial On Murder Charge At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—With his life at stake, Henry Wilkens, automobile mechanic, was to go on trial today for the alleged murder of his wife, Anna Wilkins. Mrs. Wilkens was slain in an automobile holdup, and the state contends Wilkens framed the holdup and hired Walter and Arthur Castor to end Mrs. Wilkens' life. Arthur Castor has confessed his part in the case and will be the state's star witness. Walter Castor killed himself to prevent arrest after killing one officer, wounding another and slaying his sister-in-law.

Infatuation for Helen Lange, sisteer of Mrs. Wilkens, will be advanced as a motive by the state. The defense claims a "frame up."

CHAPTER 756.

The message announcing that Jim was so near sent me off into a momentary faint. But consciousness rushed back and I found mbyself dizy in a mist of happiness. I had a queer sensation of being buoyed above everything and actually floating on waves of joy.

"Jim is near. Jim will soon be here!"

My heart seemed to sing it. I looged from one face to another, wondering what I should find. There was nothing but tenderness in each.

"All right now, honey?" asked Virginia gently. "Or do you want to go upstairs and be by yourself for a little while?"

"Suppose we clear out," suggested Pat.

Jeanie and Betty rose with so much warm sympathy on their faces that I put out my hand to stop them.

"Jim's your brother," I managed with a shaky smile for Jeanie, "and we all know how deep his friendship is for you," I added to Betty.

Then there came a peal at the door-bell. One ring followed by two more. It had the effect of a signal. Virginia motioned to Hedwig not to go. Her smile as she turned it upon me was refulgent.

"You answer the door, dear," she said. "Perhaps—"

But I was flying on feet that seemed to be winged. I reached the door almost before the bell stopped pealing. There, I paused, shaken by a feeling bigger than I've ever before known. Then I flung wide the door. On the threshold was—Jim.

For one second he stood framed against the velvet blackness of the night. Then I fe't his arms go around me. And I surrendered utterly to the dear strength of them.

We had no words. For the moment none were needed. Just to be together, just to feel Jim's arms about me and his heart thudding as he held me close, was enough. Then suddenly Jim held me off. His eyes swept my face with the warmth of a caress. He drew me to him and his lips found mine. I would have been contented to rest quietly in his arms forever.

"My Lilac Princess!" he murmured huskily, touching my face with his fingers as if his eyes could not drink in enough and he needed this second sense to make him sure that I was there, ready to leap again into the circle of his arms. "Anne. My girl! My Anne! You're sweeter and finer than ever, dear, and mine. My Lilac Princess! No one's but mine, are you dear?"

"I'm yours, Jim. Your girl." I laughed, happy because of the tone of possession in my man's voice as well as words. "And you're mine, too—aren't you, dear?"

"You bet your sweet life you're my girl!" Jim exulted. "And now we've got that all settled, give us another kiss and lead on to the gang. We'll have plenty of time to be together. But now—hungry as I am for you, and lonely as I've been, we've got to be square with the family and to be on the job! Are you with me on that, my Lilac Princess?"

"Yes—only I wish a moment like this could last forever—just the two of us with your arms around me. Oh, Jimmie-boy, I've missed you so!"

"And I've been living through the dark ages just to hear you call me Jimmie-boy again," laughed Jim. "But come—lead on to my impatient family!"

With an ache of pride and joy and fulfilment in my heart, I took Jim's hand in mine and led him to the living room where Jeanie had assembled Pat and Betty and a dainty tray for Jim to offset the humming percolator of coffee for the rest of us. And my boy was hugged and petted and exclaimed over with a warmth that must have done his heart good as it did mine. In the midst of it all, I began to realize how amazingly well Jim looked. Well fed, well groomed and with an air of prosperity even more perfect than in our most prosperous days—he seemed almost too fit in view of our long separation. There wasn't even a button missing nor a crease to symbolize his need of me. Suddenly Jim cried:

"Where's the Phoebikins?"

"We just got your wireless, dear," I replied throwing myself into the tenseness of the moment. "It came less than five minutes ahead of you—and you didn't leave one of your airplanes behind. Fearless Jim—so what could we do but offer you our triplicate welcome and save the rest—for a rainy day?"

Jim disengaged himself from Pat and Jeanie and fairly plunged to my side. Flinging his arm about me and putting one hand under my chin he lifted my face to his and kissed me there before them all.

"My girl!" he declared. "And quick on the trigger and cute as they come just as I remembered her in the long days when she seemed too good to be true."

Yielding to him for a moment, I forgot even Betty and the ache of loneliness our happiness might bring to her. Somewhere out on the edges of consciousness I heard a bell pealing, a rush and patter of footsteps down the hall and then a cry from the door. I crept closer into Jim's arms, trying to shut out the voice I didn't want to hear. But it whirred out in staccato:

"Jaime! Jaime—have you no word for me—for Rosa?"

Jim's arms dropped, and I felt myself swaying weakly. I dropped back into my chair. Rosa rushed forward a whirl of draperies under a heavy automobile coat. She seized Jim's two hands in her's and danced up and down laughing and exclaiming like a child.

"To the dock I went! To quarantine—I would have gone only your ship had landed. I miss you everywhere, Jaime. But me, I am smart. I know where goes the homing bird. I know what it is—this habit. I come here. I find you, Jaime."

Mockery and tenderness mingled in her voice. She was gorgeous in her vitality and vivid coloring. She pulled Jim down on a couch next to her and poured out a flood of questions. Some were in English, some in Spanish. Jim answered them all fluently with no discrimination or hesitation between the languages.

As I listened to Jim talking in this foreign tongue and replying with a fluency as of habit, I felt frozen. Jim was drinking cup after cup of black coffee and disdaining the food Jeanie had arranged so temptingly upon a dainty tray onu a taboret. He was utterly absorbed in Rosa and her flow of words. I was as out of their discussion as were Betty and Jeanie. Phoebe was forgotten. I had a terrific feeling of blankness—of not counting. But I couldn't stir from the chair so near the couch, yet so many miles from Jim's consciousness.

Suddenly Jim rose.

"I must go to town at once," he said authoritatively.

"If you must," declared Pat. "I'll be having the car around in a jiffy. And—only Anne will be after setting up for you. But don't mind how late you keep the car. We'll expect to see you at breakfast."

"I'll be too late"——began Jim.

"And I have me a little car I have rent. A coupe." Rosa's eyes sought mine maliciously almost threatening ly. Then she turned back to Jim and her voice was gentle, apologetic. "Manuelo Ortiz he is here. He drive for me. He drive well and is fearless You do not mind?"

"Manuelo!" Jim's voice had a sullen note.

"Jim," I cried, impelled by a love bigger than the pride that was surging angrily "May I see you alone for a few minutes before you go?"

Jim hesitated. Rosa's smile was mocking.

ATHENS, Sept. 25.—An appeal to all the world against the atrocities in Smyrna—the organized general massacres, plunder and incendiarism now in full swing in the city of Smyrna under the very eyes of the powerful fleets of the great powers—has been issued by the central committee of the unredeemed Hellenes of which the president is M. Hadjiosnnou, and the secretary, M. Hudaverdog, and of which many prominent people are members.

Freed of Murder In Russia Beiliss Comes to America

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Mendel Beiliss, Jewish workman of Kiev, Russia, whose trial in 1913 on the charge of ritual murder attracted world wide attention, is a resident of New York, it was learned today. He came to America in 1921 from Palestine, where he went after his acquittal in Russia, and is established in a small printing business.

Beiliss, the only jew in a city of 10,000 people, was arrested in 1911 after the discovery of the body of a 12-year-old boy who had been murdered. Officials charged that he had killed the boy to obtain blood for religious ritual purposes. He was kept in a dungeon for two years and then tried. After thirty days the jury freed him.

YANKEE FIGHT PROMOTERS ON TRAIL OF CARP'S CONQUEROR

CARP UNCROWNED AS IDOL OF FRANCE

Georges Meets His Master In Battle With Black Man From Senegal.

Siki Lands Knockout Punch In Sixth Chapter of 20-Round Bout.

(Associated Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 25. — Georges Carpentier, idol of French fight fans, has at last been toppled from his pedestal and today a new king reigns in the European heavyweight division.

Battling Siki, a Senegalese, hammered the great Georges around the ring in the new Buffalo velodrome last night before a howling mob of spectators and sent him down in the sixth round to stay. The bout was to have gone twenty rounds.

Besides the loss of his prestige and his title, Carpentier today was suffering from the hurts of a badly battered body. One of his eyes was closed during the fight, his nose was broken and he was otherwise beaten up.

An effort was made to save his title for him at the time of the knockout by a ruling from the referee that Siki had tripped him, and thus disqualified himself, but the great crowd would not have it, and with a violent demonstration a reversal of the decision was demanded and finally secured—an hour after the fight had ended, following a consultation of the fight judges.

Siki Unhurt at Finish.

Siki went into the ring an apparently timid man, but he gained confidence as the minutes fled and finished strong and unhurt.

Georges' blows seemingly could not make an impression. Time after time the famous Carpentier's right crashed to Siki's jaw, but the black fighter shook it off and some times even laughed at it.

The result coming so swiftly, was totally unexpected. It had been generally thought the champion would stay with Siki, and Carpentier smiled indulgently as he went to meet his man. As the bout progressed and Siki found he could take Carpentier's blows, as he had taken those of many other fighters, Georges' smile faded, while Siki became confident and, in the third round, took the offensive. From then on the result was never in doubt, and Carpentier at the end was helpless. He apparently tried several times to foil his opponent to avoid a knockout.

Descamps Files Alibi.

(International News Service.)

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Among the post-mortems today on the startling knockout of Georges Carpentier, shattered idol of Europe, in the sixth round yesterday by Battling Siki, the Senegalese, is a statement by Francois Descamps, in which the manager of Carpentier openly berates his charge for carelessness. In an exclusive interview with the International News Service, Descamps said:

"It was Carpenter's own fault he lost. He was showing off before the crowd and tried to play with Siki. He got careless, began trading punches with the black, and Siki caught Carpentier with a long left swing and Georges was never himself again. It was Georges' fault. There was no excuse for it. It won't be Carpentier's last fight, contrary to reports circulated after the bout. He will come back to get revenge from Siki, if for no other reason. I cannot say when the bout will take place, or where, but, believe me, it will be soon."

Carp a Fallen Idol.

The French press said farewell to Carpentier's career in varying terms, but all omitted flowers. Le Matin said:

"Carpentier was overconfident and undertrained. His career is over."

Petit Journal was equally unrelenting in its criticism of the dethroned heavyweight champion and idol of Europe.

"Carpentier is not retiring from the ring; he is being retired," this pape. said in part.

The defeated boxer himself has another version of the fight, claiming that the referee was justified in making the original decision which disqualified Siki for an alleged foul, and the judges were wrong in subsequently reversing that verdict.

In an interview written exclusive for the International News Service Carpentier said:

Persists In Claiming Foul.

"I stand by the referee's decision disqualifying Siki. I was knocked down by his kick."

The Senegalese, meantime, is the man of the hour in Paris. Until an early hour this morning Siki was carried through the boulevards on the shoulders of his newly created admirers, his progress being hailed with cheers by the throngs.

Americans here recall Siki fighting at Bordeaux and other A. E. F. camps during the war. They evidently were not very much impressed by his ability at that time for some of them were among the heavy losers on the fight.

When asked about his next fight, Siki declared his willingness to meet Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, in a bout for the title, but expressed a preference for trying conclusions with Harry Wills, the American negro, first.

"I admit I was a bit groggy, having made the mistake in the first round of underestimating Siki," Carpentier continued. "I would have come back strong if Siki had not used his feet.

"I've already had reports from the film taking of the fight and am assured that the pictures show kicking plainly. I want a return fight as soon as possible."

U. S. Promoters Get Busy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.— If plans of promoters here materialize Battling Siki, conqueror of Georges Carpentier, will make his next appearance in an American ring. The news of his six-round knockout of the French idol was still singing on the wires when Dave Driscol, matchmaker for Ebbets field, Brooklyn, had cabled the Senegalese an offer of $100,000 to meet Harry Wills on Columbus day.

Tex Rickard, impresario of Madison Square Garden, the New York Velodrome and Boyles' Thirty acres, Jersey City, also has entered the field for Siki's services. Rickard said he would cable the latter an offer today and two of his representatives, who are sailing for Paris within a day or two, will submit his proposal in full upon their arrival.

Tex Silent as to Details.

Rickard declined to go into details beyond that he would like to promote a bout involving Siki and an American heavy-weight. Juts whether he had Wills or Dempsey in mind is a matter of conjecture.

In announcing his offer, Driscoll explained that he had in mind an early appearance of Siki here because the latter was in fine condition and would need little training after his arrival. Driscoll added, however, that he had advised the Senegalese that the offer held good for a bout on May 30, next, when the outdoor season would open.

GRID MACHINES IN FULL MOTION

Nebraska High School Teams Now Grinding Away On Football Campaign.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Defeats handed the Geneva, Seward and Ord elevens featured the opening program of the interscholatic grind slate last week. Fairbury disposed of Geneva, 27 to 7; York sent Seward down to a 17 to 0 defeat; Loup City walloped Ord, 27 to 0.

The defeat of Geneva was perhaps the most important of all. Loss of veterans crippled the Fillmore county eleven and Fairbury won in a somewhat easy fashion. The Fairbury victory compels Beatrice fans to sit up and take notice, as the Jefferson county gridders will open the Beatrice schedule October 6.

Loup City pulled a surprise on Ord. Last year the Ord eleven was a strong factor in the state title race up until the last two weeks. Coach Halverson's men scored in the first quarter and the Ord eleven was unable to recover.

Cambridge Again in Race.

Cambridge demonstrated it must be again considered as a live member in the gonfalon pursuit. The Cambridge eleven swept Orleans off its feet, winning 92 to 6. Superior walloped Edgar, 55 to 0, and will take on York this week.

Lehigh kicked in with an upset by defeating Osceola, 7 to 0. Gothenburg found Cozad easy, winning by a 58 to 0 score.

Tekamah, 1921 champions in the northeast conference, turned back Oakland, 37 to 0. Lyons defeated Pender, 26 to 0.

Two tie games were played by high school teams last week. Benkleman and McDonald, Kas., battled, 12 to 12. Arapahoe and Oxford fought a scoreless draw.

Pennant Dope

Going into the last week of the pennant races of the National and American leagues, the Giants and Yankees find themselves needing only one game to clinch pennant honors. The worst the two teams can get is a tie, even if they lose their remaining games while the Pirates and Browns are winning the rest of their contests.

The Giants can clinch the pennant today if they defeat the Cardinals. If they fail today, they have another chance tomorrow against the same team. If they fail again they have a double chance when they meet the Phillies in two games Wednesday.

In the American league the Yanks cannot clinch their right to participate in the big series until next Thursday, when they open a three-game series against the Red Sox.

In the meantime, the contending Pirates and Browns will be idle for the first few days of the week. The Pirates do not engage in another game until Saturday. The Browns play their final three games with the White Sox starting next Friday.

The Giants have eight more games to play. If the Giants win only one game, while the Pirates are winning their three contests, the final standing will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	39	60	.578
Pittsburgh	88	66	.571

If the Yanks only win one game of their remaining four games, while the Browns are winning their three games, the standing will be:

	W.	L.	Pct.
New York	94	60	.610
St. Louis	93	61	.604

OMAHA KNIGHTS WALLOP LINCOLN

Capital City Team Bungles Ball—Makes Present of Game to Visitors.

The Omaha Knights of Columbias baseball team, champion of the class B circuit in Omaha amateur circles, defeated the Lincoln Knights of Columbus team at Landis Field Sunday afternoon. The Omaha Knights got the better of a 7 to 2 argument.

"Red" Randall, on the hillock for the Lincoln club, struck out thirteen men and allowed nine hits, but weak support in the early innings cost the Lincolnites the game.

In the second stanza, O'Connor, Omaha first-sacker, circled the bases on a trio of errors. Two singles, pair of walks and two errors counted the Omahans four more runs. Lincoln scored two runs in the seventh on singles by Gerlach and Scheiffle, two walks, a wild pitch and Murphy's two-bagger. The score:

THE ? BOX

Q.: Third strike on batter hits the ground, bounces against the catcher's mitt and then bounces against batter, hitting him on the back as he is running toward first. Ball is not fielded to first, nor is first base occupied by another runner. Umpire calls batter out. Is it a correct decision?—U. U., Wymore, Neb.

A.: Umpire has right to call batter out for interference in case he is convinced batter interferes intentionally with the catcher in handling the third strike, but from your statement of the play it is fairly clear that batter, who was struck in the back by the ball, could not possibly have been guilty of "intentional interference." Quite evidently, the umpire was wrong in calling the batter out.

BLODGETT'S TEAM TACKLE COYOTES

Southpaw Tom's Kansas Crew Scheduled to Clash With Fairbury Tuesday.

(Special to The Star.)

FAIRBURY, Neb., Sept. 25.—The Fairbury Coyotes, pennant winners in the Nebraska State league, will round out the 1922 baseball season with a busy week. Returning home today from a trip to Falls City, where they won two games, the Coyotes were preparing for a red-hot dismond battle with Tom Blodgett's Marysville, Kas., crew Tuesday, September 26. Blodgett, still the possessor of a southpaw plenty good enough to go the pace in select professional company, will do the pitching for his Marysville club against the Coyotes. The Fairbury-Marysville argument has been advertised throughout southern Nebraska and northern Kansas and the home management predicts the season's banner attendance.

A two days' baseball tournament at the Fairbury park is scheduled for next Saturday and Sunday. In addition to the Coyotes, Exeter, Falls City and Seneca are expected to participate.

Tecumseh Wins "Rubber" Game At Crab Orchard

(Special to The Star.)

TECUMSEH, Neb., Sept. 25.—Tecumseh defeated Crab Orchard in baseball at Crab Orchard Sunday, 6 to 4. Before yesterday's game each team had won two contests and the Sunday encounter was the "rubber" game.

Noakes, who has played left field for Tecumseh nearly the entire season, pitched for the Johnson county nine. He struck out twelve and allowed but six hits. Jackman, Crab Orchard hurler, was touched for seven singles and four 2-base wallops. Tecumseh now claims the championship of Johnson county, Sterling having refused to play the locals. The scores:

	R.	H.	E.
Tecumseh	010 100 220	6	11 5
Crab Orchard	100 100 020	4	6 4

Batteries—Noakes and Stewart; Jackman and Ehelan.

Tecumseh has won twenty-six games this season, lost twelve and tied one. In eight of the games, Tecumseh scored shutouts and in six games but one score was allowed the opposing aggregation.

Fairbury Leaguers Trim Falls City

(Special to The Star.)

FALLS CITY, Neb., Sept. 25. — Home talent could not measure up to the standard of organized baseball and the Falls City American Legion was given a severe drubbing at the hands of the Fairbury State league champions to the tune of 14 to 3 on the local diamond Sunday. It was the second defeat at the hands of Fairbury, the Coyotes having won Saturday's game by the score of 7 to 1.

Lovich was in rare form and allowed the Legionairres but three hits, each of them being converted to runs. He fanned 14 men. Cecil McMahon, on the mound for the ex-service men, was touched for 21 safeties, two of them homers by O'Connor and Reichle. The Weekly Record In Major Circuits

The New York Yankees, although on the road, had the best winning week of all the teams in the two major leagues. Including Saturday's games, the Yankees planted six of seven games in their victory column. The Chicago White Sox ranked second to the Yankees, with five victories and two defeats during the week. In the National league, Cincinnati and St. Louis were the only teams getting better than an even break.

The week's record in each league of games played, won and lost, together with runs, hits, errors and runs scored by opponents, including games of Saturday, is as follows.

GIVES CREDIT TO PILOT OF GIANTS

Pennant Success of New York Club Due Entirely to Smart Management.

McGraw's Handling of Wobbly Pitchers Stamps Him As Miracle Man.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The great individual accomplishment in baseball since Stallings rushed the 1914 Boston Braves from last place in July to a world's championship in October is the victory of McGraw with the Giants this season, assuming that the victory now is everything but mathematical certainty.

No club, they say, can win without pitching. The Giants have done this very thing. There is not a first-class pitcher in the Giant ensemble, just as matters stand now. You might say that Art Nehf comes within that definition. He does not. You might mention Jess Barnes, Jack Scott, Hugh McQuillan and Bill Ryan. These are only first-class i nthe sense of being first-class second-raters.

Lefty Nehf Overworked.

This may seem a rather severe indictment at first blush. Nehf undoubtedly was one of the best left-handers in baseball at the close of the 1921 campaign, but that has nothing to do with the present. He uses a snap delivery that is particularly hard on the arm and has been pitched into the ground in carrying the club through the summer months.

Jess Barnes is not a first-class pitcher for the simple reason that one swallow does not make a summer, nor one ball game a successful season. About the only noteworthy thing Barnes has done since coming up to the big timber, was that winning of two ball games in the 1921 world series after relieting Fred Toney. He stopped the Yanks with his curve ball then and he may do it again this year, but the fact remains that he stops very few clubs through the regular season.

Scott's Injury Permanent.

Scott was a good pitcher with the Braves last year, but the injury to his shoulder which prompted the Reds to turn him loose seems to be permanent. McGraw has been able to get some creditable work out of him, but the injury is such that Scott cannot afford to use all of his stuff. If he does he blows badly before the end of the nine innings.

McQuillan and Ryan never have been consistent winners. In fact, the former has not won as many games as he has lost since coming up to the league several years ago, while Ryan, a youth of much natural ability, still has a year or two between him and his best.

McGraw the Big Reason.

The above mentioned gentlemen are the regulars of the poorest pitching staff that ever worked with a championship ball club. It is a positive reflection on the rest of the league, just as it is a positive testimonial to the managerial ability of John McGraw, that the Giants are able to win in spite of them, rather than with them.

It might be claimed that the class of the Giants carried them through. It did to the extent that the New York infield saved many games that the pitching might have lost. But, outside of the infield, the Giants are only an ordinary baseball club. They are not great, when you consider that their outfield is defensively fair, the catchers merely good and their pitchers nothing short of terrible.

The Giants just happend to have a great manager.

Only One Victory Shy of Pennant

(Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—New York's prospective world's series contenders, the Giants and Yankees, are separated today by the narrowest of margins from a dyed-in-the-wool mathematically certain hold on the 1922 championships in the National and American leagues.

The Giants can clinch the pennant for the eighth time since 1904 by winning only one of the two games that are scheduled with the St. Louis Cardinals today. They could then lose all seven of their games while Pittsburgh won all three of its unplayed contests and still finish a game ahead of the Pirates, who are idle today.

The Yankees, as well as all other American league clubs, are not scheduled today. Leading St. Louis by three and a half games, the Hugmen need win but one of their four contests to settle the race. A defeat for the Browns in any one of their three contests would bring about the same result.

New Yorkers Lost Sunday.

Both New York clubs lost yesterday, Rogers Hornsby's two home runs which brought his season's total to 42, helped the St. Louis Cardinals down the Giants, 10 to 6, while Uhle outpitched Shawkey and Cleveland blanked the Yankees, 3 to 0, in the final game of their series.

The Browns, meanwhile, kept mathematically in the race by defeating Philadelphia, 7 to 4, while the Pirates gained a half game on the Giants by dividing a doubleheader with Brooklyn. The Dodgers came from behind to win the first, 4 to 2, but lost the second 11 to 3, when Pittsburgh crossed the plate ten times in the sixth inning.

Tigers Gain on White Sox.

Detroit increased its third place margin over Chicago to a game and a half by trimming Boston, 7 to 2, while the White Sox lost to Washington, 5 to 4.

George Sisler of the Browns, with three hits in four times at bat, drew further away from Ty Cobb of the Tigers in the race for the batting honors of the American league.

Stella Hi Wins Two Ball Games

(Special to The Star.)

STELLA, Neb., Sept. 25.—Stella high school has won the two baseball games played this season. The first game was won from Dawson, 4 to 3, and the other was captured from Shubert, 10 to 2. George Hunt of Syracuse, principal of the high school, is coach.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 25.

CATTLE—Receipts, 31,000. Although the supplies of cattle Monday were the heaviest of the season, the demand for beef wa abroad, and best grades, both cornfeds and grassers, sold readily at fully steady prices. Prime yearlings brought $10 60@10 80, and prime western rangers, $8 00@8.50. On the ordinary grades of both beef steers and butcher stock, the trade was very slow, and prospects were that prices would be lower before the day was done. This was true of stockers and feeders, strictly choice kind selling well, as high as $7.25@8.25, and commoner lots moving slowly at more or less shaded prices.

HOGS—Receipts, 4,600. Trading was active today, mostly at an advance of 15 to 25c, with lights generally showing the most advance. Bulk of the light hogs moved at $9.75@10.00, the latter top for the day. Good quality butchers sold at $9.25@9.75, and packing grades and mixed loads at $8.25@9.00, with a few extra heavies at $8.10@8.25, bulk of sales was $8.25@10.00.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.

Today's stock market offered stubborn resistance to occasional short pressure and pocess moved steadily upward. Favorable foreign and domestic news developments induced extensive short covering in some of the popular shares, high priced oil, rail, gas and merchandising shares being particularly prominent. Sales approximated 725,000 shares.

The upward movement of prices was resumed at the opening of today's stock market. Gulf States Steel was pushed up over 3 points to a new high record for the year, some of the recent buying being attributed to a group of Birmingham bankers. St. Joseph Lead and Owens Bottle also advanced more than a point. While the buying extended over most of the list, high grade railroad, chemical, equipment and public utility shares were most in demand. Atchison led the advance in rails with a gain of 2 points and material improvement was noted in Southern Pacific and Chesapeake group, mounting nearly 2 points, while Royal Dutch advanced 1 and gains of substantial fractions were recorded by Mexican Petroleum and Pan-American. Consolidated and People's Gas shares each climbed a point and were followed into higher ground by Davis, Allied and American Agricultural Chemicals. Other individual strong spots included Crucible, American Woolen and Columbian Carbon, each up a point or more.

Other speculative leaders in which a fairly large short interest is supposed to exist, fell into line with the upward movement in Gulf States Steel, that stock extending its gain to nearly 5 points. Country-wide reports of increasing retail business found expression in the demand for merchandising shares, Kresge jumping 5 points to a new 1922 high, Woolworth climbing 6½ and May Department Stores 3. Some unsettlement took place in midday when Mexican Petroleum was subjected to pressure on rumors of additional oil taxes, that stock dropping 2¾ below Saturday's close. Republic Steel, Rock Island, American Smelting, United Retail Stores, Middlesex Banking and Willys-Overland preferred, also yielded to professional selling, the declines ranging from 1 to 2 points. Call money opened and renewed at 5 per cent.

Efforts to bring about a further reaction were unavailing when a brisk demand arose for the high priced oil shares. The absorption of these issues was supplemented by renewed inquiry for the gas, food and investment railroads causing a quick rally throughout the list. Associated Oil improved 4 points, Standard Oil of New Jersey rose 3¼ to a new high figure for the year. California Petroleum and Standard Oil of California 2¾ points, Mexican Petroleum shared in the rise, rallying nearly 2 points above Saturday's closing. Columbia Gas was marked up 3 points above Saturday's closing. Columbia Gas was marked up 3 points, United States Realty 5½ and Atlantic Coast Line 2½ points. Nelson Biscuit, Cuba Cane Sugar preferred, Postum Cereal, Sterling Products, Endicott-Johnson and Owens Bottle also made considerable progress towards higher levels.

Recovering of a few weak spots by the bear traders failed to halt the upward movement. Tobacco Products, Retail Stores, Houston Oil, North American and American Telegraph and Cable were pushed up 1 to 3 points Baldwin and studebaker were under pressure, declining a point or more each The close was steady.

GRAIN MARKETS.

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 25.

WHEAT—Prospects of a peaceful settlement with the Turks led to a moderate setback in wheat prices today during the early dealings. Sellers were by no means aggressive though, and seemed disposed to await further developments before acting on the basis that likelihood of war had been eliminated altogether. Heavy marketing of wheat in Canada received considerable notice as an additional bearish factor. The opening, which ranged from ¼ to ¾c lower, December 1.04 to 1.05 and May $1.08¾@1.09, was followed by a slight rally and then by a downturn somewhat below the initial figures.

Subsequently further peace talk and an increase of the United States visible total supply had a depressing influence on values. The close was unsettled, 1¾ to 2¼c net lower with December $1.01@ 1.01¼ and May $1.08@1.08¼.

CORN—Large receipts of corn, together with talk of diminished danger of damage from frost, tended to ease the market for corn and oats. After opening ¼ to ¾c lower, December 58⅞@58½c, corn prices recovered a little.

Later, the corn market showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. The close was unsettled at ¾c net decline to ⅝c advance with December 58¾c.

OATS—Oats started ¼ to ⅜c to ½c lower; December 36¾c, rallied a trifle and then sagged lower than before.

PROVISIONS—Higher quotations on hogs gave strength to the provisions market.

GRAIN MARKETS

The menace of another war n Europe growing out of Turkey's aggressions brought the wheat market out of a prolonged period of dullness and caused a big rally in prices last week says the Kansas City Star. The advances were the largest in more than two months, or since the railroad strrike, and the pressure of the big spring crop first began to force quotations downward. Rumors of a broad export demand accompanied the predictions of war and accounted for much of the buying of futures though no important sales could be confirmed.

The market had a substantial setback yesterday but closed with gains for the week of 4 5-8 to 5 1-8 cents for September deliveries and 3½ to 4 5-8 cents for later months. The greater strength in the nearby contracts was generally attributed to the occasional indications of congestion at Chicago and other markets where futures have been at a discount under carlots. The market was nervous and unsettled and fairly wide swings in prices were frequent. Speculative trade increased, but is still relatively small.

Present prices are the highest since the latter part of July for September and December deliveries and are the highest of the season for May. Last week's advances stands out as the only rally of note since the new crop began to move.

Gains at spring wheat markets generally were a little smaller. Liberal receipts tending to offset the reports of actual or prospective export demand. Minneapolis futures yesterday were up 3 to 3 3-4 cents for the week and carlot prices generally were up a little less.

Winnipeg gained 4 1-4 to 4 7-8 cents, the market showing a tendency to lag early in the week and then leading the advance later.

The grain market always has been sensitive to war scares whether real or fancied, but conditions last week probably were more favorable for an advance than usual. Sentiment has been bearish for many weeks, due to the restricted business in the winter wheat territory and to the unusual competition from the northwest, and a ratheer extensive short interest has been accumulated which rushed to cover at the first intimation that bullish foreign developments might overshadow the domestic situation. At the same time there did not seem to be any widespread belief in grain or other markets that a war of any proportions is to break out in Europe. As long, however, as foreign political news is belligrent in tone, sentiment will be affected and the market is expected to be unsettled.

Claims of large export sales of Canadian wheat by England and several other foreign countries were made frequently, but confirmation was lacking for all but about 6 million bushels which is about the same volume of trade reported for several weeks past.

Aside from the war scare, comment on the foreign situation continued to indicate that the large surplus available in this country, together with the new European harvests, were still reflected in a conplacent attitude on the part of European buyers.

At the Gulf ports business continued to be limited to filling old orders. Some difficulty in getting wheat for prompt leading was reported, due to the car shortage. Some of the new business reported in Canadian grain recently has represented switching of Gulf contracts, it was said.

The Liverpool market was strong most of the week, closing yesterday with gains of more than 5 perce.

Exports of wheat and flour from the United States and Canada last week, as reported by Bradstreet's were fairly liberal, 9,843,000 bushels, compared with 6,949,000 bushels, the preceeding week and 11 1-4 million bushels a year ago. The bulk was from Canada.

Shipments of wheat from Argentina continued small, 1,151,000 bushels, a little less than in the preceding week and 862,000 bushels more than a year ago. A recent official report said the surplus remaining for export amounted to about 23 million bushels

Minneapolis and Duluth received a total of 6,021 cars of wheat last week, 9 per cent less than in the preceding week and 32 per cent more than a year ago. More advices indicate that the movement would be larger if more cars were readily available.

Arrivals at winter markets were a little smaller than in the preceding week and well under the movement a year ago. Kansas City received 1,342 cars, compared with 1,533 cars the week before and 2,723 a year ago.

The total at the five principal markets was 8,335 cars, slightly less than in the preceding week and about 4 per cent more than a year ago.

further big increase occurred in the movement to Winnipeg, the total amounting to 8,962 cars, 1,621 more than a week before, and, 2,869 more than a year ago. Another increase is expected this week.

Stocks of wheat at terminal markets are moderate The visible supply has increased only 14 million bushels since July 1, compared with an increase of 38 million in the same time last year, and the total last Monday, 31,679,000 bushels, was 14½ million leess than a year ago.

Demand for carlot offerings came chiefly from mills, most of which are operating near capacity. The lower grades were not especially wanted. Compared with a week ago, hard and dark hard wheat yesterday were up 3 to 6 cents, and red was up 2 to 5 cents.

Mills in this section continue active as most of them have liberal orders booked ahead, but new demand generally was reported unsatisfactory, buyers apparently have little confidence in th show of strength in wheat. Export demand is moderate. The Kansas City output last week was 109,000 barrels, nearly 86 per cent of capacity and was 14,000 barrels larger than a year ago.

Trade in spring wheat flour is active, though the market is unsettled due to Canadian competition. More flour has been sold ahead, both at Minneapolis and in the southwest, than for several seasons. Minneapolis mills are operating about 75 per cent of capacity.

Corn futures follo l the rise in wheat, the close yesterday showing gains of 1½ to 2 3-4 cents for the week in Kansas City, and 2 to 1 3-8 cenets in Chicago. Occasional export buying and reports of unfavorable weather for maturing the crop were responsible for some of the strength Trade generally was dull.

General rains fell in the grain area early in the week, heavy in Missouri, moderate to heavy in Kansas and Nebraska and generally light elsewhere followed by clear weather and rather low temperatures, though no frost was reported. A large part of the crop in the eastern states is safe from frost, though some of the late sections still need clear, warm weather.

Export sales in all positions last week were estimated at 2 million bushels. Shipments from the United States were 2,205,000 bushels, compared with 1,763,000 bushels the preceding week and 3 million bushels a year ago. Argentine shipments were moderate, 1,789,000 bushels.

The principal markets received 3,361 cars of corn last week, a few less than in the preceding week and a year ago.

Demand for moderate carlot offerings was only fair at slightly high prices. Compared with a week ago, most sales yesterday were steady with a few up ½ to 1 cent.

Oats futures made irregular gains for the week, 3-4 to 3 1-8 cents, the more active deliveries showing advance of 1 1-4 to 1¼ cents.

STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Increasing selling pressure was evident in the stock market this week and though pool operations and demonstrations of buying broke out from time to time in various parts of the list, and a good many minor industrials reached new high levels for the year, the average level of prices at the close yesterday was about 2 points lower than a week ago and down about 3 points from the year's high, reached September 11. A moderate week-end rally occured today because of more hopeful prospect of avoiding a clash between Turkey and England, but the market cloed unsettled.

Men who still have confidence in new high prices before the end of the year attribute this week's setback to various causes, chief of which is the increasing possibilities involved in Turkey's demand for a reoccupation of Thrace and Constantinople and the apparent lack of harmony between France and England over the question has brought up visions of another upheaval in Europe, which gave bear operators an opportunity to depress the market and prompted selling by the more timid holders.

Bullish Sentiment Modified

But the explanation is not universally accepted by market observers, some of whom think they see evidences of the abandonment of bull campaigns, for the present, at least.

Those who daily go about the financial district talking with the men who make up the class known as "insiders" learned early in August that the machinery in the stock market and in general trade was set to go ahead. On all sides it was heard that moderate inflation was unavoidable. Early in August the stock market machinery began to function. Day after day new high records for the year were established. But the volume of business handled was comparatively small, and although the last new high for the year was not made until September 11, at 90.23, it becomes plain now, in looking back at the daily records, that early this month the machinery set for a bull market was running down.

Obstacles to Increased Business.

Apparently the expectation of business boom and of inflation was modified by consideration of the fact that the purchasing power of farmers is too restricted by relatively low prices to expect full volume of demand for goods from that source. Average farm prices compared with what the farmers have to buy are materially lower than they were before the war and evidently a good many business men and bankers are giving serious consideration to this fact, as an obsticle to any great boom in business.

Business men in this part of the country have great respect for what the head of the National Bank of Commerce has to say on the situation. Here are the views of that banker. "The foremost question of the moment is whether the remarkable activity of the midsummer months will be followed by a period of gradually and conservatively increased business, or whether it is the forerunner of a period of secondary inflation. The indications points clearly to the conclusion that good business based primarily on domestic requirements is ahead for the autumn months, but that inflation in the generally accepted sense will not occur."

This authority points out the decline that has occured in farm products, together with the labor troubles, factors which he says have "effectively blocked inflation at this time." Then he points out that the state of foreign exchange is not such to encourage any idea that there is to be a large increase in European business in the near future.

He believes that is is likly that prices in some lines will continue upward as wage readjustments proceed, but he says: "Any rapid general upward tendency in the price of goods ready for the ultimate consumer would be checked by unwillingness and inability on the part of the purchasers throughout the world to follow the market. Manufacturers and merchants will still find it essential to pursue a policy of careful and economical operation, for the best prospect of profit lies not in rapidly rising prices but in operating efficiency and gradually expanding volume of business."

This week's decline in the stock market is evidence that this man is not the only one in Wall street who believes that the stock market last month made a mistake in beginning to discount a period of secondary inflation.

Trade Reviews Encouraging.

Nevertheless there were abundant encouraging developments during the week. One was the veto and final defeat of the bonus proposition, which, in the form presented by congress, was looked on by bankers as making a dangerous inflation and tying-up of bank credits. Another was the trade reviews indicating continued expansion of business. Car loading of revenue freight continued to go higher, and there was a steady increase in production in the iron and steel industry, despite the rising tendency of prices. Further evidence of the moderate revival of buiness was reflected in the enlargment of the country's credit requirements, the weekly statement of the federal reserve system showing an increase of nearly 37 million dollars in rediscounts. August motor car production approached to within a few thousand of the record in June, which was the banner month in the history of the industry. Reduction in prices of several motor cars seems to indicate one effort to inject ae stimulus to offset the usual fall slump in demand for cars.

A rather puzzling stringency in the call money market developed, the rate rising at one time to 6 per cent, and closing at 5½ per cent. Some brokers are inclined to think that bankers holding the rate up to check excessive speculation and incidentally to increase their profits. The fact that broker's loans on stock exchange collateral are said to be 1,500 million dollars, an unusually large sum, seems to justify this policy. At the same time a 5 to 6 per cent rate with liberal excess reserves when bankers were willing to lend at 4 per cent or less, up to a short time ago, with much smaller reserves, seems anomalous.

Several large issues of bonds, making with the smaller ones, a total of 75 million dollars, were readily sold this week, indicating that there is abundant capital for investment.

Foreign exchange prices were depressed moderately by the anxiety over the Turkish closing quotations today a little higher than a week ago except for sterling which shows a small net loss. The comparative stability of foreign exchange indicates that bankers have not been perturbed as much as some other classes, over the war scare.

AID FUNDS CAME FROM CONGRESS AND NOT STATE

Former Auditor Makes Reply to Statement Given Out By McKelvie.

Figures Prove Smith's Claim of Increased State Appropriation.

Former State Auditor William H Smith has given out a statement quoting Governor McKelvie's own figures, as printed in his state budget for 1921, to prove that the increase in state appropriations during the McKelvie regime, as compared with the four years immediately preceding it, has not been exaggerated.

In a summary prepared by Mr. Smith ten days ago, he declared that the increase was $26,000,000. He based this assertion on figures contained in the official published report of State Auditor George W. Marsh. But on consulting Governor McKelvie's state budget, Smith finds that the 1919 appropriations were nearly $7,000,000 more than than those shown in the auditor's publication.

In replying to Smith last week, Governor McKelvie said that federal aid funds were appropriated in 1917 for highways and vocational education, which Smith did not include in his own report as auditor. Smith counters by calling attention to the fact that it was congress and not the Nebraska legislature, which appropriated the federal funds. All state aid appropriations were included in Smith's figures.

Following is the statement of Mr. Smith in answer to Governor McKelvie's:

Cost $33,000,000 More.

"Governor McKelvie takes exception to my statement showing an increase in appropriations by the legislature amounting to $26,000,000 during the four years of his administration, as compared with the four years previous, under the administrations of Governors Morehead and Neville. Were I to use his own figures, however, the difference would be in excess of $33,600,000.

The figures compiled by the present state auditor showing the appropriations made by the 1919 session of the legislature total $29,018,793, that being the amount used in my statement. The figures compiled by the governor's finance secretary, however, and subitted by the governor to the legislature in his 1921 budget (Page XVIII) show the total was $26,979,629 69, or $6,960,836.69 more than the figures I used as compiled by the auditor.

"Accepting the governor's own figures for 1919, the total appropriations for the two four-year periods would, therefore, be as follows:

1921-22, under McKelvie	$30,271,533
1919-20, under McKelvie	26,979,629
Total	$57,251,162
1917-18, under Neville	$ 9,751,561
1915-16, under Morehead	7,273,701
Total	$17,025,262

"If the governor's budget figures are correct, rather than the figures compiled by the auditor, it has cost the taxpayer of Nebraske $33,626,626 more under McKelvie to maintain the state government for four years than it did during the same length of time under the administrations of Governors Morehead and Neville. And this, too, takes into account certain deductions enuerated in my former article.

Federal Funds Came from Congress.

"The governor says I failed, in my published statement while auditor in 1917-18 to include all the appropriations, particularly $640.000 for federal aid road and $21,000 for vocational education.

"Federal aid funds are appropriated by the federal congress and not by the state legislature and the federal aid funds were not included in the auditor's statement for that reason. Besides, no federal aid funds had been received by the state at the time that statement was compiled.

"Included in the auditor's statement of legislative expenditures, 1917 session, however, are these items:

"Page 34—'H. R. 722—State Aid Road Fund, .65 of one mill, $655,500,' this referring to the special levy for state aid road purposes.

"And on page 32—'Board of Vocational Education, $21,000.'

"The state aid road fund, while levied under the Neville administration, was in reality nearly all carried over to the next biennium and spent by the McKelvie administration. In Governor McKelvie's 1921 budget submitted to the legislature is to be found this item: 'This total includes balance of 1917-19 state aid road, $513,337.47.'

"Thus this sum might properly be deducted from the total under Governor Neville, as its receipt acknowledged by Governor McKelvie and taken into account by him. However, I did not deduct it in my previous statement.

Facts About Insurance Fees.

"So far as the insurance fees are concerned, the facts are simply these: The 1917 session of the legislature neglected to appropriate them to the use of the department for the payment of the salaries and expenses of the examiners. The insurance commissioner was directed by the board to pay these expenses by check, upon the presentation of vouchers identical with those presented to the state auditor. This position was necessary—otherwise examinations would have ceased or a special session of the legislature called for the sole purpose of appropriating them. When the legislature did meet in special session in March, 1918, however, to pass the soldiers' voting law and other war measures, these payments were approved and the fees appropriated to the use of the departments for the remainder of the biennium.

"So far as the fees and licenses referred to are concerned, which the governor estimates at $47,000, the state had no financial interest in them. The Gerdes law required them to be turned into the state treasury by the various examining boards, and drawn out only on properly issued state warrants. The receipts went to pay the expenses of the members of the various boards and could not be used, under the law as it then existed, for any other purpose. The auditor's biennial report contains a detailed account of them.

Governor Took Smith's Tip.

"A year ago the writer urged that state appropriations should be substantially reduced by the next session of the legislature, with a corresponding reduction in state taxes. To this statement Governor McKelvie took violent exceptions and was quoted by the papers as saying that 'it can't be done; we know what the expenses of the state government are; and if the money to pay them isn't raised in one way it fill have to be in another.'

"Within three months, however, the governor convened the legislature in special session to do the very thing I had suggested should be done, and in direct contrast to his published statement that 'it can't be done.' The special session only went one-fifth as far as I had suggested, but upon this slight reduction the governoris is now basing his claims for the election of Mr. Randall as his prospective successor to administer the code law."

Chang In a Plot With Anti-Soviet Against Russ Reds

TOKIO, Sept. 25.—Japanese military auethoritles are credited with the statement thaet General Dieterichs, the anti-soviet leader in Vladivostok, and General Chang Tso-Lin, the waer lord of Manchuria, haeve been negotiating secretly an agreement under which the arms lft by th Japanese in evacuating Siberia will be divided between the Sibrian general and the Chines gnral who plan to join in opposing the soviet forces and those of the far eastern republic at Chita.

To Hold Indemnity Parley In December

BRUSSELS, Sept. 25.—An international conference to consider reparations, inter-allied debts and a loan to Germany will probably be called for early in December, it is learned.

The December date was proposed so as to await the result of the Anglo-American negotiations for debt funding and to afford time to induce the United States to participate.

MINERVA'S MAIL

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

Made Herself Common.

Dear Minerva: I am a young girl eighteen years of ag. A few weeks ago I went to a party with a young man I have known for several years. This was the first time he had ever taken me out. At the party we played kissing games and I was very popular and kissed several young men. When we went home he kissed me goodnight. But he has never asked me out again. Now Minerva I love him dearly. What should I do? Do you suppose I made him mad by kissing those boys when it was just in fun. He has been taking another girl around and she was one who played goody-goody at the party and would not enter into the kissing games. PUZZLED.

A. This is one lesson I have been preaching all these years. You made yourself distasteful thrpugh making yourself so common. It is always a losing game. No man wants his girl to be one who offers her lips so promiscuously. You have had your lesson. Let it be a future guide. The girl you called "goody-goody" was acting sensibly. She thought too much of herself to make her kisses common property.

Nora O'Neal (Requested.)

"Oh, I'm lonely tonight love without you
And I sigh for one glance of your eye
For sure there's a charm love about you
Whenever I know you are night
Like the beam of the star when tis' smiling,
Is the glance which your eye can't conceal,
And your voice is so sweet and beguiling,
That I love you sweet Nora O'Neal.
Oh, don't think that ever I doubt you
My love I will never conceal.
Oh I'm lonely tonight love without you
My darling sweet Nora, O'Neal.

"Oh the nightingale sings in the wildwood.
As if every note that he knew
Was learned from your sweet voice in childhood.
To remind me sweet Nora of you
But I think love so often about you
And you don't know how happy I feel
But Im lonely tonight love without you.
My darling sweet Nora O'Neal—
Oh don't think that ever I'll doubt you
My love I will never conceal.
Oh I'm lonely tonight without you
My darling sweet Nora O'Neal.

"Oh why should I weep tears of sorrow
Or why does my hope lose its place
Won't I meet you my darling tomorrow,
And smile on your beautiful face
Will you meet me. Oh, say will you meet me.
With a kiss at the foot of the lane
And I'll promise whenever you greet me
That I'll never be lonely again.
Oh don't think that ever I'll doubt you
My love I will never conceal
Oh I'm lonely tonight love without you,
My darling sweet Nora O'Neal."

Wanted the Dollar.

Dear Minerva: I sent a manuscript to a literary accociation which advertised for criticism enclosing their fee, $1. The manuscript never came back, nor did the fee, and my letters of inquiry were returned unclaimed. Was my dollar all they wanted? I kept a copy of the manuscript. Do I dare send it to any magazine or will this other copy bob up to annoy me? ELDA.

A. No doubt the dollar was all that was wanted, and the manuscript found a ready grave in a convenient wastebasket. Send your copy anyplace you wish, only don't place any more confidence in the companies which advertise they will market your story for you. Do that yourself.

Government Canning Bulletin.

Dear Minerva. Will you please give me receipes for making cucumber pickles and the different ways to use ripe and green tomatoes in canning GENEVIEVE.

A. Yours is rather a large order and not strictly in my line. I am glad to help out now and then with an unusual recipe, something hard to find, but cannot give just general recipes such as can be found in any cook-book. I would suggest that you send for the farmers' bulletin "Home Canning of Fruits and Vegetables,' which has been revised up to date this year. For this you merely write your request to the U. S. Agricultural Department, Washington, D. C. In this you have fifty pages of the most reliably prepared directions for home canning. These bulletins have been read, corrected, read over again, revised and it is quite impossible for any error to creep in.

Eagerness of Youth.

Dear Minerva: I am a girl of seventeen and sincerely love a fellow about five years my senior. I have gone out with him several times but he has never told me he loves me. I have heard indirectly that he thinks a great deal of me. Now dear Minerva I want to know how I can find out if he really likes me and how I can show my love for him.—LEONORE

A. Well Leonore, I am quite stunned by the limited time in which your eager seventeen years allows between a first meeting and a declaration of love. Gone out with him several times and never a word of love has been spoken. How careless of him. But seriously, aren't you pretty impatient? You will frighten the young men away if you don't restrain your breathless eagerness for a proposal. They will be afraid that, say three of four regular dates minus a declaration of love would be the basis of a damage suit. First thing you know you will have no boy friend at all, unless you learn to accept them as friends only.

Where do you get such frivolous ideas so young in life?

Genevieve: See the doctor at once about your ear: don't wait for the warning pains to become more severe. You doubtless have water in the ear, maybe an infection. This is a common complaint among swimmers.

Vera: Liver spots are due to deposits of pigment in the skin. Very little can be done for this condition, which is generally due to constipation.

Questions Answered Briefly.

Rural: The treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the treasury at Washington and in the sub-treasuries, and in the national bank depositories. Careless Shamp coing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—Advertisement.

Instant Quaker Oats
Cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes

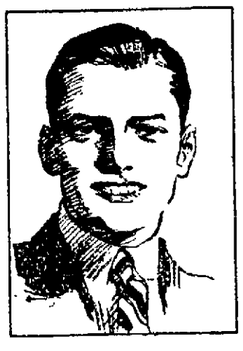
The Quaker Oats flavor has won millions the world over. This brand dominates wherever oat lovers live, for we flake it from queen grains only.

Now there's a quick-cooking Quaker, made from those same queen grains. It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest-cooking oats in the world.

The oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small thin flakes cook quickly.

Say which you want. In either regular or Instant you get the finest flavor oat flakes ever had. In Instant you get the quickest-cooking oat dish in existence.

There are now those two great reasons for insisting on this brand.



Why Pretty Teeth
Are shown everywhere today

Look about you. Note how many teeth now glisten. Note how people show them as they never did before.

Millions of people are brushing teeth in a new way. If you don't know the good results, make this free test.

Fight dingy film

One object is to fight the film on teeth—that viscous film you feel. It clings to teeth, enters crevices and stays. Food stains, etc., discolor it, then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

No ordinary tooth paste effectively combats film. So, under old methods, beautiful teeth were seen less often than today.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Very few people escaped such troubles under old ways of teeth cleaning.

New ways found

Then dental science found two film combatants. One acts to curdle film, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods effective. Then dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. In that tooth paste are embodied those two great film combatants.

Five effects

But Pepsodent brings five effects. These are very important. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's ever-present tooth-protecting agents. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold effect.

Pepsodent also polishes the teeth so film adheres less readily.

You see them now nearly the world over

These glistening teeth are now seen nearly the world over. Careful people of some fifty nations are now using Pepsodent. And those whiter teeth mean safer teeth. They mean a new dental era.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

This test will be a revelation, amazing but delightful. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

Corns Go

Blue-jay

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in a colorless clear liquid (one drop does it!) and in extra thin plasters. The action is the same.
